HERRIN MEN ARMING

FEAR OUTBREAK IN MINE TOWN

MARION, Ill., Jan. 11.—On a report that 200 men in Herrin—scene of the Herrin massacre — are "heavily armed and ready to riot," Deputy Sheriff John Layman of Williamson county and Sam Stern, exalted cyclops of the ku klux klan in this section, hurried to Herrin this afternoon to check any possible outbreak.

The report of brewing hostilities at Herrin, a small mining settlement followed decision of Sheriff George Galligan to keep the three companies of state guardsmen in Williamson county "for a while, at least."

Colonel Culbertson, personal representative of Adjutant General Carlos Black, instructed Layman to order every justice of the peace in Herrin to revoke all permits to carry weapons. Hundreds of permits were recently issued, it was said.

M'LEAN EXPLAINS LOAN TO FALL

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 11.—Edward B. McLean, Washington publisher, denied here today that the $100,000 he loaned to former Secretary of the Interior Fall was used in connection with the leasing of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve.

"Fall returned the money three days after borrowing it," McLean declared in a deposition taken by Senator Walsh, Montana, sent to question McLean by the senate public lands committee.

"Fall said he had made other arrangements." McLean stated. "So fas as I was concerned, the transaction was closed. I think the notes he gave me were destroyed."

McLean said he conferred with Fall just before making his deposition and that Fall's recollection of the transaction corroborated his.

In a letter to the senate recently, Fall said he used the money to finance the purchase of a ranch.

Walsh has written to Fall, asking an explanation of the variance between McLean's story and his own.

DOG'S BARK WORSE THAN BITE

But It Gave Chicago Park Police a Busy Hour.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Hereafter dogs are to be an object of special reverence and devotion to members of the Oak Park police department, according to rumors coming from Chief McGrath. And every Oak Park policeman, like as not, must qualify as a professional dog catcher.

It all happened because a call came yesterday from W. K. Allison at his home on North Elmwood avenue.

Mr. Allison said over the phone that he was being annoyed by dogs. The dogs——

The connection broke off. And the Oak Park police department set off at a dog trot. When it arrived at the Allison home one of the sergeants, listening to the deep-throated baying of the hounds, turned cautiously and said:

"Listen! A barkarolle!"

The squadron of police doggedly began search of the grounds and the house. The baying continued, floating wierdly toward them from obscure corners and byways. After a long pursuit the quarry finally was run down—the howling beast was at bay—behind a closed door the object of the chase lay waiting, ready to spring.

The Oak Park police department paused in consultation. Then the sergeant dogmatically opened the door. Inside was discovered a small and weary little poodle, with his hair bedraggled and his tongue hanging. That was all.

Mr. Allison, the town authorities say, intends to sue the police department for $1,000 for damages resulting from the wild chase thru his house.

Bootlegger Kills Self; Despondent

OMAHA, Jan. 11.—Despondent because he had failed to sell enough of his bootleg liquor to maintain a livelihood, Vasa Pafrigi, forty-five, Russian, hanged himself in his home here, according to police. The body was found by a neighbor. Police said they found a complete still in Pafrigi's home.

It was the former estate of Dudley Olcott, and is one of the most palatial in the east. Below, Miss Palmer, her mother and younger sister will move into their new home March 1.

Mrs. Brewster No. 2 has consistently refused to give her husband a divorce so that he may marry Miss Palmer, whom Brewster swears he will wed "as soon as the law permits."

MAGNUS LOST TO WALLACE

FARMER-LABOR SENATOR LOST BY PINT OF MILK.

Declares Secretary of Agriculture Had Been Practicing and Anyway Wife Is Champion.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Two dirt farmers, both members of Uncle Sam's governmental family, brought rural tests of skill within hailing distance of the capitol dome recently, and at the end of a spirited milking contest Henry C. Wallace, secretary of the department of agriculture, a native of Iowa, was declared winner over Magnus Johnson, senator from Minnesota.

Two patient Jersey cows, prize winners of the famous herd maintained at the United States soldiers' home, stood patiently while official, if somewhat unaccustomed, hands worked industriously. And Secretary Wallace won by a pint, according to Tasker H. Bliss, erstwhile major general, U. S. A. who descended from the dignity of commandant of the soldiers' home to referee the contest.

On Neutral Ground.

For weeks this contest had been whispered about in committee rooms of the capitol. Rumor has it that it even invaded the sacrosanct portals of the white house.

The two men met on neutral ground, far from the pastoral scenes where they first learned the gentle art of milking the cow. They worked hard. At the end a pint of creamy milk separated winner and loser. But by such small margins is victory in greater things won.

Bringing all their early training into play, the best teachings of American dairymen strove to overcome the Norse method of milking, as exemplified by Senator Johnson. The American won, but he won by taking an unfair advantage, according to the Minnesota senator, who held that the cow assigned to him had been milked but a short time before. Another of his "alibis" was that Secretary Wallace had been going out to the soldiers' home for several days in succession before the contest and to the agricultural farm at Beltsville to practice. Senator Johnson said he was very much out of practice. Anyhow, according to the Minnesota senator, he didn't do much of the milking on his farm in the northwest. It appears Mrs. Johnson is the champion of the family.

Secretary Has Confidence.

Secretary Wallace agrees that Mrs. Johnson is an opponent far more to be feared than her husband, but success has added to his confidence. He believes he is the equal of the Minnesota farmer-senator at any angle of the farming game.

There is to be another contest between the pair—this time one that involves strength as well as dexterity. It will be a wood-splitting match.

Public Hearings On The Mellon Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Public hearings on the Mellon tax bill will be opened on Monday by the ways and means committee, Chairman Green announced today.

Secretary Mellon will undoubtedly be called before the committee, Green said, but he is not likely to be the first witness. Green hopes to wind up the hearings in a week.

LaFollette Backs Blaine Candidacy

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 11.—Governor Blaine will have the support of Senator Robert M. LaFollette for reelection and will head the LaFollette progressive ticket in the coming election, it was indicated today by Robert M. LaFollette, jr., chairman of the republican state central committee, who has just returned from Washington to begin a fight to capture the presidential delegates for Senator LaFollette.

BIG SHAKEUP IN THE PENNA

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11.—A big shakeup in the personnel of officials of the Pennsylvania railroad system and re-arrangement of divisions of the railroad is under way, it was learned here today.

In the west orders have gone out to "double up divisions" so that one superintendent can look after two divisions where the traffic is light.

Many division superintendents will be shifted to new posts during the next few days.

Officials of the railroad this afternoon admitted the shake up of officials was under way but refused to give any further details.

Formal Notice That Watson to Stay Out

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—William M. Butler, Coolidge campaign director, today announced he had designated Ewing Emison, Vincennes, as Indiana manager of the Coolidge campaign.

Butler's statement was taken as formal notice that Senator Jim Watson would not seek the presidential nomination at least not in opposition to Mr. Coolidge. Butler said he had consulted Watson, Postmaster General New, Republican State Chairman Walb and that there seemed to be "general approval" of his selection of Emison.

Butler and Emison willl meet Thursday in Chicago.

Bryan to Attempt To Prevent Advance

An attempt to protect the people of Nebraska from any raise in gasoline prices above 16 1-4 cents a gallon was promised here Friday by Governor Bryan following the announcement that the Standard Oil company of Indiana intended a 2 cent raise Saturday.

"If the report proves true I shall investigate the matter thoroly and do everything in my power to protect the people of Nebraska," Governor Bryan said.

"In dependent oil companies by holding to the present price can show they are now working with the Standard Oil to restrain trade. If they again follow the lead of the Standard Oil company and raise it, it should prove to the public they are not independent companies."

Former Premier Venizelos is steadily improving.

The youthful earl-sailorman was caught at the wheel of the schooner.

TALE OF DOWNFALL OF GERMAN MARK

Table Shows Mathematical Tale of Drop From 8.20, January 1, 1919, to 4,200,000,000,000 in Five Years.

BERLIN, (By mail)—Americans who bought German marks during the last five years may see from the following table just about what they paid for them—if they happen to have forgotten that sad act.

The table shows the average value of the German money—marks to the dollar—as it was officially listed by the government. All that is necessary is to know when the marks were purchased and the table will tell approximately what was paid.

This table, obtained from official sources, gives in the least wordage the actual mathmatical story of the crash from 8.20 on January 1, 1919, to 4,200,000,000,000 five years later.

Americans who bought marks which they hoped would some day be worth par value—leaving them rich and independent—may see how near their hopes have been fulfilled by looking at the December, 1923, average—the figure at which the marks are being redeemed in stable values. The table:

NO OWNER FOR $500,000 RUM

Stock Stored at Hammond, Ind., Not Claimed by Anyone.

HAMMOND, Ind., Jan. 11.—A half-million dollars' worth of whisky stored in the Hammond distillery is without an owner, according to Bert Morgan, Indiana state prohibition director who came to Hammond to try to untangle the ownership problem.

Two years ago the liquor was sold by the original owners to a corporation and subsequently the custodian was caught by federal agents taking a truckload of the whisky to Chicago. The government then found that the names of the directors of the corporation were fictitius.

A few weeks ago the liquor was sold to a Chicago man for $8,000 on order of the superior court to satisfy a storage bill of the owners of the distillery property. Morgan declares that the sale was illegal.

DEFENDS POLICY TOWARD RUSSIA

By Lawrence Martin.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Anybody who questions the American government's Russian policy is a "nut."

That is the official department of justice description for them, announcement emphatically by Attorney General Daugherty himself.

Daugherty was asked to explain these points about the goverument's foreign policy:

1—Whether the "abundant evidence" which he said in a formal statement the department has of communist activities in the United States directed from Moscow, warranted criminal presecution.

2—If so, why the department does not prosecute.

3—Why, if this evidence is not sufficient to warrant prosecutions of communists, alleged to be plotting overthrow of the American government, it is considered sufficient to warrant the state department withholding recognition from Russia.

Daugherty started off by saying that "the attorney general has said all he is going to say about this matter. Too much attention is being paid already to these flabby-minded weaklings who are trying to tear down our house."

Attempts to question Daugherty further appeared to anger him.

"Do you support these agitators?" Daugherty asked. "Are you one of these weak minded people who talk about free speech every time someone tries to curb these agitators?"

Finally he was asked why, if the communist propagandists, who the government says, are being directed from Moscow, are violating American laws, they are not jailed.

He replied in effect that the government does not jail them because then a "lot of silly people" would start parades and free speech demonstrations.

Then Daugherty was asked whether this government is afraid of these "flabby-minded weaklings." Secretary of State Hughes regards as dangerous enough to warrant withholding of Russian recognition.

"If you ask that question, seriously, you are a nut, like the rest of those that ask it," replied Daugherty. "To the extent that you think like they do you are a nut. That is the official department of justice opinion of you. You are a nut."

Thereupon he terminated the interview thus:

"That's all. I'm busy."

ATTACK AIMED AT MAYFIELD TO SECURE CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATION OF K. K. K.'s

Senator Mayfield at His Desk; Inset, George Peddy, Defeated Candidate for Mayfield's Office.

Congressional investigation of the ku klux klan may follow the movement to oust United States Senator Earle B. Mayfield of Texas.

Many of Mayfield's enemies in Texas are more interested in crushing the klan there and elsewhere than in compelling the Lone Star senator to vacate his seat, it is said.

His dismissal is sought, according to many Texans, merely as an incident in the arraignment and impeachment of the klan before the bar of public opinion in America. The anti-klan group is being aided by George B. Peddy, whom Mayfield defeated for office.

DISPUTE AS TO SALARIES

LAWSUIT TO DETERMINE DISTRICT CLERKS' PAY.

County Insists Not Liable for Any More Money Than Clerk Earns Each Year and That Is Legal Basis.

Argument was heard by the supreme court Friday morning in a case from Buffalo county, which is to determine whether district court clerks, whose salary comes entirely from fees earned by the office, work on a yearly unit or term unit basis.

E. Bowker was district court clerk at Kearney for four years beginning in 1916. During that time he earned $11,393.20 in fees applicable on his salary. The salary of the office was fixed by a resolution of the county board at $3,000 a year, plus necessary clerk hire

The county says that the law requires that the district clerk pay each year into the treasury the excess fees earned that year, while the attorney for Bowker, who won below, say that these excess fees are merely held in trust for the district court clerk by the county treasurer until the end of his four year period, and that this means that the excess in any one year may be applied to make good a deficit in fees for any other year.

The county claims that settlement must be paid each year, and that each year's business determines the clerk's compensation. Its attorney took the position that having paid the excess of one year into the treasury, it could not be pulled out some subsequent year to make up any shortage of fees so far as salary is concerned.

The case involves also the question of whether Bowker was entitled to any more than $2,500 a year, plus clerk hire That is the salary fixed by law for counties of between 20,000 and 25,000 The census of 1920 gave Buffalo county a little less than 24,000 people The county board met, however, and declared that the election returns showed that more than 25,000 persons resided within the county

The county attorney says this was done for the sole purpose of allowing county officials to qualify for the higher salaries that go with larger population than 25,000 and that the board was without any power to do this

REFINANCING WITH NOTES

TRACTION COMPANY ASKS COMMISSION APPROVAL.

Arranges for Five Year Loan to Take Care of Indebtedness Due to Retirement of Part of Bond Issue.

The Lincoln Traction company has filed with the state railway commission an application for the approval of an isue of five year coupon notes totaling $225,000. It is purely a refinancing operation, as presented to the commission, and adds nothing to the outstanding indebtedness or security issues of the company.

Several years ago a quarter million of bonds of the $1,500,000 mortgage became due. Under the provisions of the mortgage which authorizes bond issues from time to time the total cannot exceed $1,500,000. When the first batch issued fell due, the financial market did not permit of profitable sale of securities, and a group of the wealthier stockholders bought the bonds and took the notes of the company, bearing 7 and 8 per cent, for whatever cash the company itself was able to apply on the purchase.

Since that time the company out of its dividend funds, has bought other of its bonds when an opportunity presented itself to get these cheap, and the total of bonds thus held is around $300,000.

It is now proposed to issue $225,000 of coupon serial notes, due in five years. These will bear 6 1-2 per cent interest, but will be sold at a discount that, with amortization charges, which means getting money to make good the discount they will be sold at, will make the cost to the company around 8 per cent. This is said to be about as favorably as financing can be done now.

The company will retire $15,000 of these notes each year, and this will leave $165,000 to be taken care of at the end of the five year period. These have been sold to a trust company, with the $300,000 of traction bonds stated put up as collateral security.

APPEALS FOR COURT'S AID

NATHAN FINEGOLD OBJECTED TO STAYING IN A JAIL.

District Judge Refused to Suspend Sentence After He Had Committed Him for Contempt of Court.

The supreme court's long arm reached over into Omaha Friday morning and lifted Nathan Finegold out of the county jail, where District Judge Carroll C Stauffer had committed him for contempt, and had refused to admit him to bail while he could take the matter up with the higher court

Finegold had a case in Judge Stauffer's court against the Union Outfitting company and at the conclusion of his testimony Judge Stauffer told him that his statements were not true, that he had committed perjury and could him for contempt of court in so doing

Shortly thereafter the court sentenced Finegold to eight days in jail on the charge of contempt and when Finegold's attorney asked for an opportunity to get his client out while he could go to the supreme court with the contempt case Judge Stauffer, the attorney says, refused to suspend the sentence or permit bail

The supreme court, in view of the refusal of the district judge, in a matter of such a character, suspended the sentence and fixed the bail and when this is given Finegold will be temporarily at liberty

WILL STUDY EDUCATION

ACTION TAKEN BY NEBRASKA FARM BUREAU FRIDAY.

Country School Patrons Assemble to Discuss Betterments and to Encourage the Hiring of Competent Teachers.

The Nebraska farm bureau federation at its annual meeting Friday morning voted to make a study of rural education and a committee will be named by the new officers with power to act and to report back to the bureau.

The morning meeting was largely devoted to a discussion of taxation, cooperative marketing and the matter of dues of members. Some favored raising the dues while others felt that this step would be unwise. The election of officers was slated for Friday afternoon. It was indicated that the old officers would be re-elected. Secretary Steward has completed one year of service, succeeding H. D. Lute, resigned. Harmony apparently reigns among the leaders, President Keefe and Secretary Steward said that there was a substantial gain in membership in the state during 1923.

C. H. Gustafson talked on the transportation question. He urged a study of the problem from a non-partisan standpoint because it is the great question of the hour to farmers

"More than half of the county superintendents in Nebraska have no clerical help" I. N Clark, state director of rural education, told the members of the Nebraska rural school patrons' association at its annual meeting Friday morning at the campus of the state agricultural college. Mr. Clark said that Custer county is as large as four ordinary counties and yet the county superintendent has only one assistant

Mr Clark advised that the rural schools get the best teachers and keep them. He said more attention should be given to the physical education of children and that they should be kept in the home school until the twelfth grade

While the administration of the country schools are almost entirely in the hands of the people of the district, the state superintendent is responsible for the training of rural teachers. The organizat on will elect

NEW MAN TO BE SELECTED

MR. REAVIS FINDS PRIVATE BUSINESS TOO PRESSING.

Will Not Manage Coolidge Campaign in State But Will Do What He Can to Help President Carry State.

The part that Former Congressman C. F. Reavis will take in the Coolidge campaign in Nebraska has been greatly exaggerated, he said Friday. The story was wired from Washington recently before his return to Lincoln, that he would have a prominent part in the campaign to secure the primary endorsement and national convention delegates for the president. This was interpreted to mean that he would open headquarters and actively manage the campaign.

Mr. Reavis says his activities in behalf of the president will be limited to whatever counsel and active aid he may be able to give and will not embrace active management. He said:

"The published statement that I have assumed the active management of the Coolidge campaign in Nebraska has resulted in such an avalanche of letters and telegrams as to seriously embarrass my time. While I earnestly favor the nomination of the president and desire to contribute to his success in the the state, I am not in charge of his campaign nor do I expect to be. My law business requires too much of my time to justify me in assuming any such responsibility. The manager for Nebraska is yet to be selected tho I anticipate the appointment will be made in the immediate future."

BUTLER PLANS NO LET-UP

Marine Commander in Charge of Philadelphia Policemen Battles Vice.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11.—There was no pause today in "Old Gimlet Eye" Butler's anti-crime offensive here.

Without a break in his stride, the marine commander sent his blue coats against the wavering ranks of law breakers who had rather anticipated a breathing spell from the new director of public safety's intensive warfare.

Four lieutenants and four acting lieutenants who didn't take Butler's orders seriously were suspended by Butler who announced that other suspensions and demotions would follow where he found any temporizing with crime.

"There's going to be no letup," the general said. "Of course we can't stay up all night every night but if necessary we'll have a couple of these forty-eight hour drives every week until we've accomplished our purpose."

Thruout the night raids continued. The city council is with Butler. They raised his salary yesterday from $12,000 to $15,000.

Havelock Man Promised to Hang Human Pelts on Fence—Now Up to Him to Deliver Goods.

Republican members of the last house of representatives who were repeatedly told by one J. Jacoby that he would hang their pelts on a barbed wire fence, will give him opportunity to deliver on the promise publican state headquarters, indications are that a majority of republican members of the last house will try again It is even hinted that the Jacoby threat has increased their determination to keep in the race and off the fence

JUDGE HAS FILED FOR RE-ELECTION

DISTRICT JUDGE MORNING

an old time Lincolnite who has become widely known for his work in the court of domestic relations and his juvenile work, filed for re-election to the district bench in the office of the county clerk Friday forenoon. Judge Morning was appointed to the district bench in 1917 by Governor Neville at the time a fourth court was created in Lancaster county, and has held the position as equity judge ever since. Judge morning was admitted to the Nebraska bar in Plattsmouth in 1885. He was elected county attorney at Alma in the fall of 1888 and with the expiration of his term came to Lincoln where he has made his home.

MORE SNOW IS FALLING

MILDER WEATHER COMING WITH SNOW PRECEDING IT.

Precipitation at Lincoln Said Not to Be General and Warmer Temperatures May Be Looked For.

More snow fell at Lincoln Friday afternoon. Reports showed that little or no snow was falling east and west of Lincoln, the storm here being local. Little or no wind came with the snow.

The low temperature for the state, as reported by the weather bureau was at Lincoln, when it reached 4 degrees above zero early Friday. Omaha reported 6 above, Valentine 14 above and North Platte 16.

Railroad reports showed moderate weather conditions from the Rocky mountains to the Missouri river. Traffic was moving nicely over all Nebraska lines.

Reports of Thursday's storm indicated that an average of six inches of snow covered a great part of eastern Nebraska.

Somewhere in Nebraska lives a hooch man who wears horseshoes. Probably he sells Horseshoe hooch. Deputy State Sheriff Broady and an official companion started over the snowy wastes Friday morning. They drove about four miles and came back. A drift described as having a depth of six feet stopped them They were out to make a raid.

The officers are not telling where the Horseshoe brand may be found Maybe it is east and maybe west. Or it may be north or it may be south. Possibly it is out twenty miles and possibly 200 miles

FEROCIOUS BANDITS HEM IN FOREIGNERS

CITY'S COMMUNICATION CUT

Peking War Ministry Trying to Ascertain Facts.

HAD EXPELLED TRIBESMEN

Merchants and Mendicants in Chinese City Are Now Supposed to Have Been Spies for Thibetans.

PEKING, Jan. 11.—The entire Batang district, around the city wherein ten American missionaries and an undetermined number of foreigners are penned in peril of starvation or capture, is held by ferocious Thibet tribesmen, according to the latest war office reports.

Efforts to establish communication with the beleagured city today proved unavailing.

The war ministry is doing its utmost to learn of the fate of the Americans and foreigners and also to find out why the Batang defense troops, which numbered 500, withdrew so mysteriously upon the approach of the Tribetans, who poured over the border from their mountain retreats last week.

The Batang municipality recently expelled all Thibetans who entered the city. They came as merchants and mendicants, but many of them are believed to have been spies.

A new group of missionaries, which had intended proceeding to Batang, has been held at Yunanfu, sixty miles away, awaiting developments.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 11.—Col. W. J. Simmons, founder and E. Y. Clarke former imperial wizard, were banished from the ku klux klan today in a proclamation by Dr. H. W Evans, imperial wizard, according to information made public here by Clarke.

Clarke indicated he and Colonel Simmons had received copies of the proclamation signed by Dr. Evans and by seventeen grand dragons of the "invisible empire" in conference in Washington. The conference has been in progress several days, an official in Clarke's office said.

WOMEN BACK A CANDIDATE

MRS. DEWEESE FOR REGENT OF UNIVERSITY.

Lincoln Women Desire Representative on Governing Board of State's Big Coeducational Institution.

In response to a petition of several hundred women Mrs. Alice Towne Deweese of Lincoln filed her personal nomination as a candidate for regent of the university from the first district Friday morning in the office of the secretary of state. Her name will be placed on the non-political ballot next April Earl M. Cline of Lincoln, formerly of Nebraska City, is already in nomination for this office.

No provision is made in the non political law for nomination of candidates by petition. Such nominations come from the candidates in the form of a personal request. However, the women behind Mrs. Deweese's nomination circulated petitions among women voters of Lincoln. The filing fee of $10 was paid by the Lincoln branch of the American association of university women.

Mrs. Deweese is the wife of Fred M. Deweese. She is a graduate of the university, was formerly a member of the university faculty, and for eleven years she and her husband lived on a farm in Richardson county and was chairman of production on the woman's committee of the Nebraska council of defense.

Mrs. Deweese was chosen by women of Lincoln after several meetings for a discussion of the proposal to nominate a woman candidate. Such a plan has been in formation for two years The university being the largest coeducational institution in the state it has been urged that a woman's point of view in government and especially in schools government is a most important one and that women should be represented on the governing board of the university. It is urged that Mrs. Deweese is familiar with the viewpoint of both country and town toward the university and its needs.

The nomination of Mrs. Deweese was filed with the secretary of state by Mrs. F T McGerr, formerly of Falls City and Miss Ida L Boltjes of Lincoln Among the Lincoln women on the petition are Messdames W. E Hardy H H Wilson, W Z. Barnes, C. L Hall, W P Ross, A. G Warner, Miss Olive Pound and Maud Gere

WHAT USE IS THE FARM?

None, Except as Country's Biggest Industry, One-third Developed, Vivian Says.

"Of what use is the farm?" Dean Alfred Vivian asked Kiwanians Friday at their weekly luncheon at the chamber of commerce, and proceeded to answer that it was the country's biggest industry, as yet only developed to a third of its capacity and only beginning to be organized. Dean Vivian came from the Ohio agricultural college to address the organized agriculture sessions here this week, and has been heard before several civic clubs and other groups.

"The greatest need of the nation today," he said, "is a prosperous, happy intelligent family on every farm." For this it is necessary that farm labor shall be rewarded somewhat in proportion to the rewards of other business, the speaker explained, and he prescribed organization as the best and only method of attaining this objective.

Preceding the address, Charles Wiles entertained the crowd with a group of xylophone numbers to accompaniment. Secretary Watson read a letter of appreciation from Mrs. Carrie B. Raymond, to whom the Kiwanis distinguished service medal was recently awarded, and Chairman Beachley of the entertainment committee announced ladies' night for Thursday, January 24.

Action on the civic club plan to boost Lincoln as a Western League baseball town was referred to the board of directors, who were to consider it immediately after the meeting.

BIG PRIZES FOR FARMERS

STATE WIDE CORN CONTEST APPROVED BY GROWERS.

Nebraska to Be Divided Into Districts and Ten Acre Tracts Used to Demonstrate Productive Possibilities.

Nebraska farmers will be given an opportunity during 1924 to show what they can do with ten acres of corn. The agronomy department of the Nebraska state agricultural college under the direction of Prof. Paul H. Stewart is now working out the details of a state-wide prize contest and the plans will be made public in a short time.

It has the hearty backing of the Nebraska Crop Growers' association. The state will be divided into districts or sections. The farmer in his district who grows the largest quantity with the smallest cost per bushel at the same time of good quality will prove a first prize winner. All contestants must keep a simple record of the experiment.

Prizes to be offered will be announced as soon as the contest plan is complete.

BOY PRODIGY IS CLERK

Son of Dr. Boris Sidis, Who Was Graduated From Harvard at Sixteen, Earns $23 Weekly.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—William J. Sidis, son of the late Dr. Boris Sidis, internationally known psychopathologist, who knew six languages, passed college entrance examination when he was eight years old and entered Harvard university at eleven, is, at twenty-six, a $23-a-week statistical clerk in a New York business office. That was announced today by the New York Tribune.

Young Sidis became known as a progidy in 1909, when, in short trousers, he delivered a lecture on the fourth dimension before Harvard professors and instructors of mathematics and freely and ably answered all their questions on the subject.

At two he could read and write; at seven he passed anatomical examinations of the Harvard medical school; the next year he passed entrance examinations of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. At ten he entered Tufts college; at eleven, Harvard, from which he was graduated in 1914 at the age of sixteen.

After two years of graduate work, he became an instructor in mathematics in Rice Institute, Houston, Tex. He was heard from next in Boston, where, May 1, 1919, he was arrested after a socialist gathering, charged with rioting and sentenced to eighteen months in the house of correction. He appealed and defaulted, two warrants being issued for his arrest.

About six months ago, friends of Sidis found employment for him here. They had difficulty in doing so, for he insisted on doing work which did not require thinking.

DEATH OF MRS. SPEALMAN.

WYMORE, Neb., Jan. 11.—Sarah, wife of J. R. Spealman, sixty-six years old, one of the real pioneer settlers of Wymore, having lived in their home in the east part of the city for the past thirty-five years continuously, died very suddenly last evening. She had not been sick, but took a choking spell and died in a very short time, the cause of death being given as heart failure. Mrs. Spealman has been very prominent in civic affairs for many years and was an active W. C. T. U. worker, having been the first president of the local organization, and elected to the sam eoffice at various times since, and had been president continuously for fifteen years at the time of her death. She also served several terms as president of the Gage county W. C. T. U. A prominent part was taken by her in the pageant parade at Wymore's fall festival last August, a score of young girls having been drilled by her and forming a float representing the W. C. T. U. in the parade. The family homesteaded land just south of the state line in Kansas previous to coming to Wymore, and Henry, a son, now lives on that farm. A daughter, Cora, wife of a Lincoln street car conductor, died in Lincoln ten years ago. The other sons, John, city physician of Lincoln for many years, and Earnest, an attorney, at Stockton, Kas., and the aged husband of Wymore, survive. Burial will be at Wymore.

STATE SPEEDS CASE AGAINST E. BAKER

Accountant From Minneapolis and Retired Attorney Called to the Stand in North Platte Embezzlement Trial.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Jan. 11.—Attorneys for both the defense and state believed the trial of Elmer Baker, former deputy county treasurer, for embezzlement would go to the jury by Saturday night.

Today the state speeded up its case and in rapid succession called A. E Larsen, accountant from a Minneapolis auditing firm, and W. T. Wilcox, retired attorney, to the stand.

Wilcox testified he received notices in 1922 from the treasurer's office signed by Baker as "deputy." The defense claimed Baker was not a deputy until January 1, 1923.

Larsen identified various slips, which the state claimed were used by Baker to replace cash withdrawn by him.

Upon these bundles of slips the state based its charge that Baker had embezzled money from the state. The slips, according to state's attorneys, were totaled and the amount credited on the counter books as cash.

ORDERS FRONTIER CLOSED

General de Metz Takes Action Following Disorders in Palatinate.

MAYENCE, Jan. 11.—General De Metz today ordered closing of the frontier between the Palatinate and Germany, as a result of disorders following the assassination of President Heintz of the Autonomous palatinante.

Bridges across the Rhine have been closed and are guarded by military units.

Circulation in the streets of Speyer is prohibited between 7 p. m. and 6 a. m. All restaurants and public places are closed during those hours.

Heintz was shot and killed while dining in the hotel Wittlesbacher at Speyer night before last, presumably by young nationalist Germans who resented his separatist views.

BELIEVE BODY SPERRY'S

LONDON, Jan. 11.—A body believed to be that of the American aviator, Lawrence Sperry, who disappeared last month while attempting to fly his famous "flivver airplane" across the English channel was washed ashore today near Rye, Sussex.

Sperry, celebrated stunt flyer, had been flying his baby airplane in England during the political campaigns. He decided on a cross-channel flight but his plane fell into the sea.

GETTING COAL REPARATIONS

FRENCH HAVE BEEN IN THE RUHR FOR YEAR.

Cost Paris About $50,000,000 to Force Germany to Knees and Cost Germany Innumerable Trillions of Marks.

PARIS, Jan. 11.—One year after France, with her Belgian ally, went into the Ruhr to compel Germany to pay her reparations bill according to the terms of the treaty of Versailles, an operation which England officially denounced as illegal and likely to lead to disaster. France is receiving coal and coke to the extent of several thousands of tons daily toward the reparations account.

It cost France about $50,000,000 to force Germany to her knees. It cost Germany untold trillions of paper marks, actually however representing many millions of dollars and brought the country to the verge of revolution and economic collapse.

When 50,000 French and Belgian troops, infantry, cavalry, artillery and tanks, advanced into the great industrial and mining region on January 11, 1923, the inspired press of England cried, "The End of the Entente!"

Germany Surrendered

But in spite of the pessimistic predictions of the British press, Germany capitulated. She carried on a losing fight of about nine months, subsidizing the unemployed workers of the Ruhr by printing, millions, billions, trillions of marks, until the point of exhaustion arrived and she could do no more.

The occupation was military only in a limited sense. The troops were there because the French and the Belgians had decided that the mining, industrial, customs and other administrative employes needed protection. Just as soon as the occupation became effective there began a series of maneuvers since entitled "passive resistance," which the Berlin government has represented as spontaneous, but which Poincare has often called direct German propaganda, paid by funds which should have been paid over to the reparations commission.

Isolated French and Belgian posts were attacked. The Germans who remained in the mines and on the trains systematically "sabotaged" both services. Train wrecks, in which the victims were not always allied citizens, were numerous. One German, named Schlagetter, was convicted and shot by a firing squad for such a crime. He is now the hero of the ultra-nationalists of the Ruhr.

Cash Not Expected

Poincare admitted in the French chamber that he did not expect to get actual cash towards the reparations account out of the operation. He said what he desired was to create in Germany the "will to pay." He succeeded in the sense that the Berlin government capitulated, practically washing its hands of the whole affair. It left the actual terms of settlement to be worked out between the representatives of the allies and the big group of Ruhr industrial barons, headed by Krupp and Hugo Stinnes.

When Berlin realized in October 1923, that it would be impossible to continue the financial war, it practically admitted that it had been supplying the funds for the so-called passive resistance. It gave carte blanche to Stinnes and company. The result was that, on Nov. 23, after the negotiations had been called off by the allies on account of Berlin's interference, the "barons" signed an agreement, whereby the chief industrial and mining men of the occupied region consentde to the following conditions:

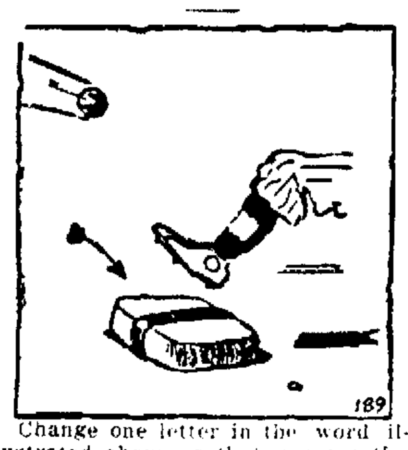

1.—Immediate payment of $15,000,000 (the figures were given in dollars, not in marks) as arrears of the coal tax., which the Germans had refused to pay from the date of the occupation.

2.—Payments of ten francs (paper—or about 50 cents) a ton on all coal extracted sold in unoccupied territory or sent thereto.

3.—Handing over to the reparations commission of 21 per cent of all the production of the Ruhr mines.

According to the statistices of the French engineers France is now getting about 7,000 tons of coke and 12,000 tons of coal a day. In January 1923, before the occupation the Ruhr mines delivered to the allies 532,000 tons. In February, the first after the occupation, the deliveries fell to 95,000 tons and in the following month only 82,000tons were handed over. French factories had to buy coal and coke in England.

AN INCENTIVE FOR LOCAL BOY SCOUTS

Those Making Poorest Showing in Membership Campaign Now Under Way Will Be Called Upon to Sweep Jail.

Scout Executive Kent announced Friday that a new and horrible incentive is offered in connection with the membership drive which has been extended to February 9. Mayor Zehrung, high chief among scouts is campaign leader and his illness and long absence from the city brought about the extension.

The troop making the poorest showing in the contest must sweep the city jail and the leader of that troop shall direct the cleansing process. If two troops are tied for low honors, then it is probable that the county jail may also receive a cleaning.

The scout executive stated that prize winning scouts will take charge of the city government, for a time at least, February 16. There will be a scout mayor, scout fire chief, scout councilmen, a scout chief of police and scouts in charge of the several fire stations.

There are now 700 scouts in the city. It is the purpose to boost this total up near the thousand mark. A big rally will be held on the night of January 24 in the high school auditorium.

FAIL TO TAKE ACTION

Fairchild Resolution on Harding Doctrine of No Sales of Arms Is Tabled.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Action on the Fairchild resolution to write into law the "Harding doctrine" of no sale of arms to foreign powers, was postponed indefinitely today by the house foreign affairs committee.

Chairman Porter said the committee was virtually unanimous in favor o fdeferring action on the resolution introduced by the New York congressman as a result of the government's sale of arms to the Obregon government of Mexico.

Fairchild himself voted for postponement, Porter said, after the circumstances of the letter written by the late president to the secretary of war, was explained.

A memorandum by Secretary Hughes stating that Harding's letter was intended to prevent foreign powers in time of peace from building up large armaments from America's surplus war supplies was read to the committee by Chairman Porter.

"Obregon, the eighth president of Mexico since the abdication of Diaz, has shown by word and deed his good faith toward the United States," Porter said, "and the committee felt that the United States should aid him in putting down the present insurrection."

SLIDE OF THE MARK STARTED IN 1919

Now Has Reached Stable Level at 4,200,000,000,000 to the Dollar —Halted by Stopping Presses.

BERLIN.—By Mail.)—Starting in 1919, the German mark began its ever-continuing slide into nothingness—on thru the years until today it has reached an apparently stable level at 4,200,000,000,000 marks to the dollar.

The mark was arbitrarily halted at this point by stopping the presses. It makes reckoning comparatively simple. One so-called gold mark—on whose basis all prices are calculated in Germany now—is worth exactly one trillion (1,000,000,000,000) marks in paper.

Many Kinds of Money.

The other numerous interchanges of stable moneys, such as schatz money, Prussian emergency dollars, etc., involve even more mysterious and confusing calculations. If the government hadn't halted the mark slide at exactly 1,000,000,000,000 to the gold mark, it is questionable if the people could have ever made change at all. It's bad enough as it is.

On January 1, 1919, the German mark was officially quoted at 7.95 to the dollar. The par value during normal times had always been approximately 4.20 marks to the dollar. So that by the end of 1918 the German money had not yet fallen 100 per cent. Today it has reached a valuelessness of one-trillionth its peace-time worth.

Statistics for 1919 show that on the first of each month the mark had slid just a little on its way to nothingness. On February 1 it had jumped down to 8.57. The average value in February, 1919, was 9.13 as compared with 8.20 in January. The quotation on December 31, 1919, was 48.48—a drop of more than 40 during the year.

Between January 1 and December 31, 1920, the story was much the same—from 48.80 to 73.37. From January 1 to December 31, 1921, it dropped from 74.50 to 184 to the dollar. In 1922 it started the toboggan which carried it far beyond redemption—from January 1 at 186.75 it crashed to 7,350.

The Final Slide.

But even in January, 1923, when, following the occupation of the Ruhr and as a result of other contributing factors, the mark sank rapidly from day to day, nobody in Germany ever dreamed it would overtake and pass the Austrian crown. Shortly after the French occupied further German territory, the mark crashed to 49,000 to the dollar. On January 1, before the occupation, it was only 7,260. On January 31 it was 49,000. But thru artificial means the mark was forced up so that on February 1 it averaged only 27,190 for the month. In April it started slipping again as the government found itself unable to furnish more stable foreign money for stabilizing purposes.

The April average was 24,457, May 47,670, June 109,996, July 348,819, August 4,620,500; September 98,860,000,000, October 25,538,000,000, November 2,193,600,000,000 with 4,200,000,000,000 the daily quotation all thru December.

In a short time most of the paper money will be replaced by rentenmarks and these in turn will be replaced by something else—the German people hope it will be something stable.

AFTER THE HONEYMOON

A NEW "MARRIED LIFE" SERIES

—By Fay Stevenson Copyright, 1923, Press Publishing Company

The Bargain.

At nine that evening, while Sylvia and Alan were still talking about the car and whether they should ever get their money out of it, the bell rang and Ray Livingston and McQuade stalked into the room.

"Well, we're here at last, and we've sold the car," announced Livingston, beaming joyously with an "I never fall down where the lady of my heart is concerned" smile at Sylvia.

"Are you the happy purchaser?" asked Alan turning to McQuade.

"Say, did you think I'd buy an old boat that broke down like that right while I was testing her out?" laughed McQuade.

"Well, then, did you buy her, Livingston?"

"Say, my business is selling cars!"

"Righto. Then out with the secret." Alan was in a better frame of mind now. He noticed that Livingston's freckles were even more obvious than when they had both been courting the same girl.

"Well, by heck!" began Livingston, "the farmer bought the car, Alan. How's that for doing business?"

"That depends on the wad you turn over to me."

Livingston opened his wallet and drew forth a new $50 bill. "How's that?"

"First payment?"

"Yep."

"It's twice as much as I gave originally."

"Then you win. McQuade was only going to give me twenty-five bucks because he knew that was your first installment, but when this gol-darned old farmer began to look the car over and tell me it would cost more to repair her and haul her back to town I began to hem and haw.

"If you give me a good first payment I think I could get the car for you," I said.

Well, we dickered about and finally that old chap dug down into his pocket and paid me fifty bucks—a sort of deposit for my friend and now, old Alan, I guess you're satisfied. Better go out and buy a few more cars to take out to the farmers."

Alan walked about the room and smiled. Sylvia hustled out to the kitchen for cider and ginger snaps and the crowd sat down to celebrate.

"What do you get out of this?" suddenly asked Alan.

"Nothing this time, but go slow on the cars after this," warned Livingston.

The cider glasses were filled again, the doorbell rang and everybody whispered "Joyce!" But Alan returned with "no such luck, it's mother arrived bag and baggage."

Tomorrow—A Blow-Out.

TALK "PUBLIC RELATIONS."

NEW YORK, (My Mail).—The thirteenth annual convention of the National Retail Dry Goods association will be held February 5-8 at the Hotel Astor, New York City. It is announced that the chief topic in the four day meeting will be "Public Relations." Discussions will center around the following factors: Finding practical methods for lowering the cost of distribution; showing how efficient, constructive service can be given without extravagance; encouraging by better methods greater public confidence in retail operations.

The Kentucky legislative session began at Frankfort.

GERMAN SPY QUESTIONED

Former Employe of the Fatherland Believed by Chicago Police to Be Brains of Outlaws.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Albert Langner, crack German spy during the world war, charged by police with being the brains of a small but daring band of criminals, was cross examined today in the hope of recovering loot taken from several palatial homes here. Langner already has confessed to robbing the Lake Forest home of Clive Runnels, vice president of the Pullman company, police announced.

Fred Deschart, another of the gang, also is in custody, and a hunt is on for a character known as Berlin Frank.

On the outskirts of the city Langner maintained a cache for the gang's loot, Deschart told police. Deschart said he could not lead the way to the place.

Langner, carried a bag of exquisitely made burglar tools, of foreign make when he was arrested. He said he was on the way to rob several Michigan boulevard specialty shops.

During the war Langner was one of the most active of the former kaiser's espionage corps, police said they learned. Numerous robberies of tial homes here. Langner already are attributed to him.

NEED LOCAL COOPERATION.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 11.—Can prohibition be enforced. The Pennsylvania state police are trying to answer this question for the benefit of the state and nation. At the end of a year in conducting Governor Pinchot's dry crusade, they have come to the conclusion, according to Maj. Lynn G. Adams, superintendent, that without local co-operation, prohibition is a failure.

George Norbeck is to be Hiram Johnson's North Dakota manager.

DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN
brought vigor by morning

How To Keep A Child Healthy

A GENERATION ago parents thought that sickness was a part of a child's life, but we know better now. The secret is in the food the mother allows the child to eat, and in watching that elimination occurs regularly two or three times a day. Mrs. J. Russell of 19,141 Havana Ave., Detroit, Mich., keeps her family of two young children in perfect health with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and Mrs. R. L. Smith of 519 Maple Ave., East Pittsburg, Pa., says her family of three children have never been sick a day since giving them Syrup Pepsin.

A Substitute for Physics

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientific compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and suitable aromatics. The formula is on every package. You will find you do not have to force children to take it, and it is much better for them than castor oil, calomel or coal-tar drugs like phenolphthalein even if covered with sugar or chocolate. Syrup Pepsin is mild and gentle in action and your child will have an easy passage without griping or strain. It does not contain narcotics, and you can give it with absolute safety to an infant at the breast.

"Magic" in a Teaspoonful

Every store that sells medicines sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. Give half a teaspoonful to any ailing baby or child at night when you put it to bed and you will find a happy, laughing youngster in the morning. Take Syrup Pepsin yourself when constipated, and give it to any member of the family young or old, for any ailment due to constipation, such as biliousness, headache, lack of appetite, sleeplessness, bad breath, cankers, fever sores, indigestion, and to break up fevers and colds. Stop that first sneeze or sniffle and you will have a healthy winter.

M'LEAN ASKS FOR A DELAY

WANTS TO POSTPONE EXAMINATION REGARDING FALL.

Senator Walsh Grants Request and Hearing Into Teapot Dome Project to Be Resumed in Afternoon.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 11.—Edward B. McLean, Washington financier and publisher, today asked postponement of his examination by Senator Walsh, Montana regarding a loan of $100,000 McLean made to former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, who leased the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve to Sinclair Oil interests.

McLean said he wished to consult his counsel, J. Wilton Lambert of Washington, who arrived this morning on the same train with Walsh.

After McLean had consulted his counsel, another delay was asked to permit McLean to confer with former Secretary Fall, who is here.

Senator Walsh granted the request and the hearing is now scheduled to begin at 2 p. m. Walsh is considering calling Fall to testify regarding the loan he got from McLean.

BANKERS HISS MAGNUS

Minnesota Senator Is Undaunted by Heckling When He Declared Mellon Plan Not to Pass.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 11.—Undaunted by the fact that last night when he addressed the Pennsylvania bankers association, he was hissed, booed and heckled when he announced the Mellon plan would never pass congress, Senator Magnus Johnson today returned to Washington to carry on his fight against the Mellon tax reduction program.

Seven hundred bankers continually interrupted Johnson during his hour and a half address with cries of "sit down" and "bring on the other speaker."

When the senator declared the Mellon plan would never pass because it favored the wealthy, the financiers hissed for fully three minutes. Johnson refused to be discouraged and stuck doggedly to his speech.

When he concluded the audience had been smoothed down and he was applauded.

TWO OUTLAWS AT LARGE

One of Most Desperate of Ashley-Mobley Gang Is Captured in Heart of Everglades.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 11.—Two members of the Ashley-Mobley band of outlaws, still at large, were hunted in the Everglades today, following an all day battle with the two outlaws.

Albert Miller, one of the most desperate of the band, was captured in the heart of the swamp lands yesterday and charged with the murder of Deputy Sheriff Fred Baker.

Of Vital Interest to all Girls is Miriam's fight for Her Good Name and Her Ultimate Success.

CHAPTER XIV.

Purple and Fine Linen.

At the establishment of Holland and Carson Miriam has an office of her own. It was simply but attractively furnished, with a large glass-topped mahogany desk, a filing cabinet large enough to hold her designs, and two or three chairs. Miriam came and went as she pleased, but it suited her to remain at her work most of the day. Mr. Carson liked her work. It was thru him that she had been given a start, and now it was not unusual for her to design as many as two dresses a month, and once or twice she had done three or four.

She always kept a sketch book in which she outlined ideas as they came to her. Once she had had an idea for a perfectly simple and very unusual evening gown, the idea had popped into her head after she had gone to bed, and acting on impulse, she had jumped up, slipped into a dressing gown, and with some plain white muslin on a dressmaker's form, had draped and pinned until nearly morning.

The next day she had burst into Mr. Carson's office with a radiant face. "I have an idea for an evening gown; it will make a sensation. Will you let me experiment with some material. It takes so long to make a decent drawing."

Without a word Mr. Carson had led the way into the workroom. He did not question the girl, he did not caution her about ruining expensive goods, because he felt that she knew what she was doing.

"The velvet with the silver threads," she had breathed, half afraid that he would refuse her.

But he ordered the velvet to be brought in, and a few minutes later Miriam was slashing with a pair of shears into exquisite fabric that sold at retail for $20 a yard.

The dress was exquisitely simple, but it breathed originality. For one thing, the neck-line was different from anything Everett Carson had ever seen, and then the way the material was drawn in at the waist, why it was perfect! It would be sure to inspire any woman with the desire to purchase it.

Mrs. Pendleton Phelps offered $500 for the dress if they would promise not to have a copy made, but Mr. Carson shook his head. Mrs. Phelps was a good customer, but $500, why, the price was ridiculous for an original model, when they could sell several at three hundred and fifty apiece! Besides, the dress needed an uncorseted figure to show off its lines and Mrs. Phelps, who leaned toward embonpoint, would look ridiculous in it.

Mrs. Phelps departed in high dudgeon, vowing to buy nothing more at Holland & Carson's. Whereupon the dress was carried downstairs and placed in the window against a background of ivory white velvet. Later the same model was sold to four different women from different parts of the United States, and each thought she had purchased the original dress.

The creation of this gown brought a great deal of prestige to Miriam and did away with some of the drudgery of her work. Of course, she still drew designs in colored ink, but for the most part she experimented with the material itself, and whenever she saw her idea clearly she cut and slashed with little fear of making a mistake.

Miriam was on the high road of success. There was talk of sending her to Europe before the year was over. Mr. Carson was enthusiastic over her. Mr. Holland, who rarely came into the establishment, approved his partner's judgment. But as for Miriam herself, she went around with her head in the clouds, and was as unspoiled as tho she had never accomplished anything.

ANOTHER COWGILL ARREST

Street Department Head Exhibits Resentment When One of His Men Hit by Auto.

By virtue of police power vested in a councilman, Commissioner Cowgill Friday morning arrested L. A. Wilterdink, route 3, and hauled him to police headquarters. There he filed charges of reckless driving. According to Mr. Cowgill, the auto driven by Wilterdink struck Jack Farley, street department employed, and bruised his arm.

The accident happened at about 10 a. m. near Thirteenth and Van Dorn. The big snow plow and tractor was in operation. Farley was walking along at the side of it. Commissioner Cowgill also was at the side in his car. He said that Wilterdink did not honk his horn or otherwise signal his approach. The street space was occupied at the time by Mr. Cowgill, the snow plow and Farley.

"He apparently had a choice of hitting one of three objects," said Mr. Cowgill, "the tractor, my car or Farley."

The street department head admitted that he was on the wrong side of the street but stated that it is necessary for him to drive along side of the plow to watch it work.

"When a car approaches," he said, "I drop in behind the tractor."

Wilterdink was released to appear in police court Saturday morning.

Newton Kansan: We have been hunting for a definition of 100 per cent Americanism, and have found one. Americans prize their great liberties above everything else that touches country or government. DOTTY MEETS A QUEER LITTLE TREE DWELLER.

"WELL, dear me!" Dotty mused as she stepped up to the wire fence. "I guess they've taken the animal away who lived in this pen."

"So," laughed a merry voice, and Dotty turned to see Happy Giggles, the merry elfin from Make-Believe Land, smiling at her side. "You have another guess coming this time."

"Where is he, then?" Dotty asked, after shaking the elfin's hand. "This makes the third time I've been up to this wire fence to-day and I haven't seen anything in here, unless it's—say, Happy Giggles"—and Dotty pointed up in the tree that stood behind the wire fence, "what little animal is that sitting on the limb over there?"

"The occupant of this pen," replied Happy Giggles. "You may as well come on down now, little lady. You are discovered," he called merrily. And a little creature, about the size of a very small squirrel, with a tail much too large for its size, came scampering down the tree and up to the side of the fence nearest Happy Giggles. "Dotty," said Happy Giggles, "this is Mother Ant-Eater."

Dotty bowed politely and the little creature nodded its pretty head.

"I suppose because you didn't see me you thought there was no one living here. So many folks have said the same thing when they stopped here. They never think of looking up in the tree."

"No wonder," Dotty laughed. "Who ever heard of an ant-eater living in trees? I surely never saw one that did before. You don't mean that you live up there, do you?"

"Certainly she does," laughed Happy Giggles. "That's why I happened along just now. I knew that if I didn't call Mama Ant-Eater down you'd never see her."

By Happy Giggles' magic Dotty was made so very small that she could squeeze through the wires and Mama Ant-Eater let both her and Happy Giggles peek into her little house.

There, in a hole in the tree, was a nice, soft nest of leaves, and on it, sleeping soundly, was a dear little baby ant-eater.

"You see, my cousins who live on the ground have to carry their youngsters with them everywhere they go, but I don't care to have my child sitting on my back all the time, so I make this comfy nest and she stays there while I go out for food.

"I never leave her for longer than a few seconds at a time. Most of my food I gather at night while the ants are asleep. That's why we have these long, slender, tube-shaped mouths, so we can stick them down into an ant-hill easily."

Mama Ant-Eater stuck out her tongue and Dotty declared it was the longest tongue she had ever seen.

"You're right there, I guess," laughed Mama Ant-Eater. "Well, if you'll excuse me I must get to work." And Mama Ant-Eater stepped into her little doorway.

Happy Giggles and Dotty had just reached the other side of the fence when the closing bell sounded. Dotty thanked Happy Giggles, bade him good-by and hurried home.

NO SINGLE MODE FOR NECKLINE

No One Style Has the Influence That Dominates Season

By ANNETTE BRADSHAW

WHILE the bateau neckline reigned supreme for a number of seasons, it is at last making place for a diversity of neck treatments.

Variety is always welcome, and these effective necklines that offer interesting changes are appearing on every hand.

Here I'm showing two satin frocks that are ultra-smart for immediate wear and because of their material and lines will be ideal for wear all through the Spring season.

At the left is a shiny brown satin model that exploits the new epaulette collar which comes as a distinct innovation. The collar in question is made of fine ecru batiste. It has two folds of material about the neck, while three additional folds extend down over either sleeve.

The black satin model at the right uses the finest possible white net for its neck and sleeve treatments. The square neckline is finished with a frill of the net, while soft net folds fill in the space at the neck. Note the little puffs of net that finish the tight sleeves.

These two frocks, aside from their interesting necklines, exploit the apron and drape treatments which continue to be smart.

The New Epaulette Collar Is Increasingly Popular. The Square Neckline Is Finished with a Frill of Net.

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Two Miserable College Failures

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

THEY found a chubby little two-months-old baby boy on the steps of one of the big hospitals in one of the big cities the other morning.

The little fellow was wrapped in a soft white blanket and a pretty white silk cape.

Pinned to the cape was a little note—it looked as if some one had been crying when the note was written—and all the letter said was that the mother and father of the baby were both college graduates and of good family.

They were legally married and very fond of each other, so the note said, but they were too poor to take care of the baby and so they left it on the steps of the hospital and hoped somebody who was able to take care of the boy would adopt him and give him a chance in life.

Poor, foolish, pitiful, young things!

What good did all their college education do them, if neither of them could manage to make $3.00 a week extra and pay some good nursery home to take care of the baby until times were better?

Poor little fellow! Who would want to take him and bring him up to be a man—knowing that he had such foolish, irresponsible, helpless creatures for parents?

Neither One Had Grit

What chance is there for a child whose parents had no more courage and no more ability than that? How can they hope that the child they deserted will ever amount to a row of pins when neither of them had grit enough and character enough and heart enough and brains enough to take care of a little, helpless, trusting baby with their own blood in his veins?

College education! They were so proud of that they had to mention it in the note the mother wrote when she let her own child go out of her arms—forever—because she didn't know enough or care enough to take care of it herself.

College education! What did she learn at college that was so valuable?

Shakespeare and Milton and Dante and Michael Angelo and Fra Angelico—oh, yes, she knew all about them and about Beethoven and Mozart and Schubert and Schumann, too.

Which do you suppose she studied—Greek, Hebrew or Latin? None of them seemed to help her very much when it came to the plain, common business of taking care of her own flesh and blood.

And the man. Geometry, trigonometry, astronomy, the higher criticism—fine things these, as furniture for an empty skull.

Why, the most ignorant laborer in the streets knows more this minute than that man for all his college education.

I wonder how he happened to go to college anyhow, this fellow who abandoned his own little son. Did his father and mother rake and scrape and economize and plan and go without? What high hopes did his mother have for him the day she packed his trunk and kissed him good-by when he went away to enter the university?

What kind of home did he come from anyhow—this man who was well and strong and well educated and yet couldn't support his own child?

What sort of mother did this strange mother herself have? Was she ambitious, selfish, worldly?

May Have Been for the Best

Poor things, what failures they are.

If they only had not said anything about the college education it wouldn't be so bad, would it?

It's as if the poor, foolish creatures had written a note and said that both parents had good singing voices or could play the piano—and therefore——

Well, here's hoping for the little fellow.

Maybe the best thing that ever happened to him happened on the night that his mother and father wrapped him up in his best clothes and put him on the hospital steps to take his chances with the rest of the abandoned children.

What do you think about it?

YOUR HEALTH

Malaria Will Soon Die Out If You Kill All Mosquitoes

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

JUST now I read a dispatch from Moscow, saying that Russia is in the grip of a deadly epidemic of malaria. It is said to be sweeping the country, disturbing the railroads, crippling industries and threatening multitudes of peasants. During the year, according to this report, there were fifteen million cases in that ill-fated country.

Refugees from the south and the return troops and prisoners of war from Turkestan and Caucasia, have contributed to the situation. After every war there are epidemics of diseases. All the conditions of readjustment of population contribute to this disaster. One of the scourges which may come in this way is malaria.

Of course everybody in this enlightened age knows that malaria is carried by the mosquito, or rather by one variety of this winged pest. But the mosquitoes do not become infected unless they have a malarially infected person to begin with.

The mosquito sticks his bill into the skin of a man whose blood contains the malarial agent. In sucking the human blood the insect fills its body with the diseased blood which can inoculate other human beings. The insect flies away with its disease-producing cargo. Alighting on an innocent and ignorant victim, it injects a dose of the disease-generating material. Very soon there is another victim of the disease and another center of the contamination of the community.

There can be no inoculation of the mosquitoes until there is a case of malaria in the neighborhood. When there is such a case and the right—or shall I say wrong?—kind of mosquitoes are present, the whole town is in danger.

It is probable you regard the mosquito as a Summer pest. You may be surprised to learn that under certain conditions they thrive through the Winter too. Wet basements, hidden pools or basins of water in engine room or other warm places, and similar places anywhere, furnish breeding places the year through.

Every community should rid itself of mosquitoes, especially the "anopheles," the malarias carrying pest. Swamps, lowlands, mud-holes, stagnant ponds, dump heaps where tin cans supply the water for breeding—all such places should be drained and removed by the health "anopheles," the malaria-carrying ter-carrying things should be looked after by the householder.

This is the time for you to begin the campaign for next Spring's clean up. We are never free from the danger of an epidemic of malaria, where our surroundings are not inspected enough to make sure the wiping out of all the things which assist the spread of a very uncomfortable disease.

Having suffered from it myself in my youth, I can sympathize with the Russian who has it now.

Three-Minute Journeys

OCEAN STEAMERS A THOUSAND MILES FROM THE OCEAN.

IT is related that a vessel went down off the coast of South America and several of the crew escaped in an open boat. They rowed for days under a burning tropic sun. Their food gave out and then their water, but with the endurance of true seamen, they struggled on. When they had been three days without water one of the seamen went crazy and scooped up handfuls of the seawater, drinking it copiously.

Then he turned to his comrades and shouted:

"It's fresh! It's fresh!"

They knew then that he must be completely crazed, but he kept on declaring that the water was fresh, until another seaman, nearly insane for want of drink, leaned over the side and tasted the water. It was fresh.

For three days these men had been rowing up the Amazon, frenzied from thirst and afloat in a sea of drinking water! That such a thing could happen gives an idea of the tremendous width of the Amazon for a long distance from its mouth.

There is a line of transatlantic steamers which sail from London and the port of destination is Manaos. This is not a seaport of South America, but a river port. It is located nearly in the center of Brazil, about a thousand miles from the delta of the Amazon. The river is so broad and deep that ocean liners can navigate its waters for a distance of a thousand miles.

Manaos, thus strangely located port, is a very curious city. It is in the very heart of the scantily explored Republic of Brazil. On all sides of it is the jungle, where [illegible] [illegible] and poisonous reptiles. Through Manaos pass most of the rubber, the quinine and other products of central Brazil. The wharves and warehouses are up to date, and half a dozen black hulled ocean steamers are usually in port.

You Strengthen and Beautify Your Arms with These Exercises

WHEN you give your arms a careful scrutiny, can you be proud of them from the beauty standpoint?

When you examine your elbows and the sweep of your arm from shoulder to wrist, do they come up to your beauty requirements? When you wear a sleeveless evening gown do your arms appear scrawny and angular, or too soft and flabby?

Answer these questions truthfully to yourself. If you honestly don't know what you think of your arms, examine them as if you were seeing them for the first time with the critical eyes of a stranger.

Stand before your mirror, and notice the line from your shoulder down to your wrist. Is your arm attractively rounded at the shoulder, and does it taper in gracefully at the wrist? Raise your arm till it is at right angles with your body. Notice the portion between your armpit and elbow. Is it firm and graceful, or does it dip in a flabby, soft way that is altogether unattractive?

I have noticed particularly of late how many women who seem to be strong and well built have practically no strength in their arms. They find themselves unable to remove the loosely-screwed-on top of a cold cream jar, and have to call on someone with a stronger arm. Their arms appear scrawny, or weak and flabby, and if they have their eyes opened to this defect they dislike donning decollete evening frocks which reveal this lack of beauty.

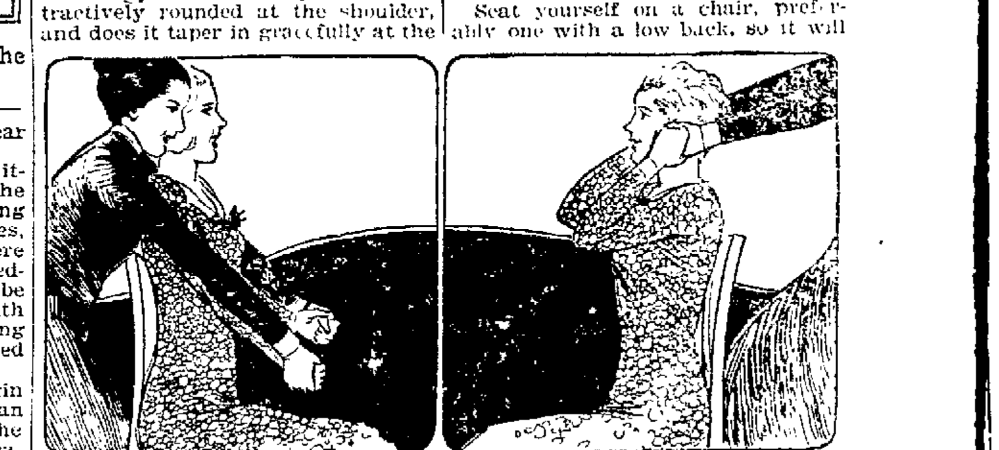

Now, if you happen to be the kind of outdoor person who spends long Summer days playing golf or tennis or taking dips in the surf, you doubtless have sufficient strength of arm to carry you through the Winter months.

But so many of us cannot indulge in such luxuries as these, therefore we have to look to other methods. They may be less interesting to do, but we can make them not unattractive and we can undoubtedly derive a great amount of good from them.

Now, I'm going to tell you of an exercise to put strength into your arms. You will find it very pleasant to perform, partly due to the fact that you have to have company in it, for it's the kind of exercise that requires a second person to help out. Surely you can find a friend, or a member of the family, who will help you.

The exercise is this:

Seat yourself on a chair, preferably one with a low back, so it will not interfere with your movements.

This Pulling Exercise Is Highly Beneficial.

Have someone stand behind the chair, facing your back, and extend their arms, so that you can reach your arms up at your sides and back a little and grasp the hands of the person behind you.

Now, the exercise is to pull the arms of the person behind you down in front of you. They should resist the movement rather strongly, so you will have to bring your muscles into play.

Then you push their arms back to first position, while they resist again.

This exercises the muscles of both concerned. Keep it up for as many times as you can without tiring. You will find that your endurance improves, too, with your muscular movement and your beauty of arm.

Dicky Promised When Lillian Cracked the Whip.

LILLIAN gave an extra curl of the whiplash to her last words, and I, standing near her and listening tensely to her telephone conversation, was not surprised after an instant's interval to see her lips relax into a satisfied smile. It told me that Dicky had capitulated, and would carry out his mother's wishes.

"'All right' is 'right,'" she said, and I could imagine Dicky's impatient reiteration of the phrase, when he finally felt compelled to yield his objections to having the will drawn up which his mother wished William Harrison to have an opportunity to sign before he died.

"Please keep us advised of conditions as often as you can, on your mother's account," she went on, and then with a quick glance at me, she added, "Yes, Madge is right here."

She handed me the receiver and I took it with a reluctance and a feeling of pique that I would not have had her guess for many dollars. She had succeeded in conquering Dicky's temperamental objections to his mother's plan where I had failed, and although I was heartily glad of her success, because I could see the necessity and the wisdom of the scheme Mother Graham had proposed, yet there was a pricking barb for my vanity in the knowledge that my husband had yielded to her insistence instead of mine.

Madge Is Mollified.

Whether Dicky realized this or not, I do not know, but there was balm for me in the explosive irritation of his greeting when I had spoken the simple words, "Is there anything you want me to do?"

"Yes, there is. Take Lil out and boil her in oil. You've got a crust, sicking her on to me about that will thing, when you know she's got ten bull pups tied to the mast for stubbornness and persistence. I suppose you felt you didn't have the strength to wear me down yourself, although you knew it was only a matter of time, so you turned the job over to her. Oh, I'm going to go through with it, now that I've promised—I'm no welsher—but you two know-it-alls will find out before you get through that this is about the craziest thing you've ever tried to put over."

"Advise the precious child to roll his hoop," Lillian whispered, and I translated the phrase in as conciliatory fashion as I could manage.

Held Up by Will Power.

"Perhaps you're right," I said meekly, with a moue at Lillian, "but nothing matters now, only assuring Mother that you are going to do what she wishes. I must go up to her now, for she is anxiously waiting to hear what you said."

"Well, tell her I'm the goat as usual. How is she standing it all, anyway?"

The swift transition from anger to anxiety was characteristic of my volatile husband, but in some curious, inconsistently feminine fashion, I felt my own resentment against him gone, and I answered his query gently.

"Wonderfully, so far, but I am afraid she is using every ounce of will power and strength she has in the effort. I think you ought to get the children here as soon as possible. If you think it best, I could come in to New York and meet you with them and bring them out here, and you could return there for—for anything that was necessary."

"That might be a good idea," Dicky returned, suddenly tractable. "Good-by, take care of yourself," and the receiver clicked its signal of dismissal.

"I'll go straight upstairs and tell Mother everything is going as she planned," I said, turning toward the staircase.

"With no mention of the difficulties incurred," she [illegible] with a smile.

"Indeed not," I returned [illegible] when I reached [illegible] room where Mrs. [illegible] sweep her slightest [illegible] looked up at me with the [illegible] little smile which she seemed determined to keep upon her face as a symbol of her determination to keep down her weakness and [illegible] as long as she was needed.

DEATH LIST IS SEVENTEEN

FRENCH COAST INUNDATED BY TIDAL WAVE.

Scientists Believe Wave Caused by Combination of High Tides and the Recent Severe Storms.

PARIS, Jan. 11.—The death list from the tidal wave which inundated many towns along the coast of France early Wednesday stood at seventeen today, with crews of many ships still to be heard from.

It was feared the final toll of casualties might be much larger.

Reports of a submarine seismic disturbance were denied, scientists asserted the wave was caused by a combination of unusually high tides and the severe storms which have been raging intermittently for two weeks.

No reports hove been received from the crews of several disabled vessels. It is feared the men were overwhelmed by giant waves when they took to life boats.

BUCK PASSED TO SPILLMAN

Shroyer and Auten Referred to Attorney General for Light on Complaint Against Majors.

J. O. Shroyer of Humboldt and James Auten of Albion, were at the capitol Friday to confer with Attorney General Spillman in regard to a complaint filed last fall with Governor Bryan asking for removal of T. J. Majors as a member of the state normal board. They said Governor Bryan had referred them to the attorney general. Last fall they were referred to the normal board and that body approved all official actions of Mr. Majors. The complainants say they feel that the buck is being passed around quite freely.

Attorney General Spillman said he had nothing to say in regard to his jurisdiction in the matter or whether the law authorizes him to file a complaint for the ousting of an appointee of the governor who is serving as a member of the normal board. Whethre the complainants desire the attorney to start action with direction of the governor or upon the attorney general's initiative has not been stated. They have thus far been unable to obtain action by the governor tho they contend the governor can act without the aid or consent of any one. One phase of the complaint filed with the governor, the removal of faculty members at the Peru normal, is a matter pending in the district court of Nemaha county.

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Dear Mary Gordon: Am giving a luncheon in the very near future for about fifteen of my girl friends announcing my engagement. Would you kindly suggest some novel and original way of announcing same; also what would you suggest as a gift to the bride's maids? What color scheme would be pretty to carry out in the bridesmaids' dresses besides the usual blue, pink and yellow? Any information you can give me will be more than appreciated.—To-Be.

A. One way of announcing your engagement is to have the luncheon and to announce at the close that a puzzle is to be solved. Each girl is handed a card and pencil, with instructions to solve the jumbled sentence written across the top of the card. It might run:

GINCNANNOU HET NAMEGE-GENT FO REIJAMOR DAN KARFN.

The first to decipher the correct meaning, "Announcing the engagement of Marjorie and Frank," might receive a prize, perhaps a leather bound engagement book.

Or, when your guests are seated at the table, they might find at each plate a place-card with a 10-cent "diamond" tied to it. A massive wedding ring could be fastened to the card of some girl whose engagement has already been announced. The girls are told to wear the rings and pass them about for inspection. When it is discovered that your solitaire is real, the engagement needs no announcing.

Or present each guest with a long-stemmed flower having a small, irregularly shaped piece of pink cardboard attached to the stem. These pieces of cardboard, you may tell the guests, when properly arranged and fitted together, would "form an article of wearing apparel." When the small, irregular pieces are fitted together they will find they have a bridal slipper on which is written the announcement of the engagement of one of the girls.

You might give your bridesmaids lingerie clasps or the small pins used to fasten sweater sleeves or small silver or gold pencils.

Lavender and pink would make a lovely color scheme. It would be effective in either georgette or taffeta for the girls' dresses. The decorations might be pink roses with lavender candles. Pink and white or white and green dresses would also be pretty.

Dear Mary Gordon: In regard to an Indiana art company:

If you cannot do the work, you return the material and they will deduct from 50 to 75 cents—more if you have spoiled any material. You are out the postage also. I could not do the work as I could not tell some shades of green from blue. A relative could do fine work as she was an inside decorator.

Can you print names of men who own papers organized into the Associated Press?—N. E. W.

A. Thank you for the information on the art concern.

There are so many papers which are members of the Associated Press that I have not space to print their names. The State Journal is a member.

Dear Mary Gordon: I may seem new to your column, but it surely isn't new to me. I certainly enjoy your answers to the questions asked. So original.

Here's my trouble: I have a very dear girl friend who lives in a nearby town (small, too), and is expecting the stork in about two months and has nothing at all, you might say, in that line. Her husband was killed in an auto accident and leaves her almost stranded, so thought some of your readers might have some things that can be used and appreciated very much on her part, I'm sure.

I'm very good at making over things and sewing, so if anyone has things that could be made into baby clothes I'd be glad to make them over for her. Just get my name and address and phone from Mary and I will be glad to call for things and send them to her in one box. Thanking you very much, if I get some things with your help.—H.

A. It sounds like a deserving case. I'm sure some of the readers will have something for her.

Dear Mary Gordon: I am seventeen years old and attending high school. For Christmas I gave my girl an onyx ring with a diamond in it. She accepted it but things seemed to have changed. Even tho it is a few days since the time that she received the ring, she has gone to dances and parties with another boy. She is the first girl I ever really cared for and now she will not date me. Really, she is almost breaking my heart. I have met her twice on the streets and each time she speaks in a blushing manner. Do you really believe that she likes the ring so well that it would make her feel embarrassed to go with me?

This is a case of love at first sight, because when she first came to our town I was the first to date her, and even the first time that I had ever seen the girl. Now she is very popular and as I have said, she is going with another boy. Can't you tell me what to do in order to make her like me again? I take her everywhere she might want to go; I get to go to most of the parties here, and I always take her. Surely, she cannot dislike me.

I am going to close now and I will be watching for my answer in the paper. Watchfully waiting—Ward.

A. If she accepted your ring, she surely should allow you the pleasure of her company once in a while. It wouldn't be right for her to ignore all the other boys on your account, however. Just wait patiently. Some of these days, if you don't appear too eager, she will accept your invitations again.

Pork Fruit Cake.

Chop fine half a pound of fat salt pork, place in a saucepan, add half a cup of water and boil two minutes. Add one cup of brown sugar, one beaten egg and three cups of sifted flour sifted with one teaspoon of soda, one teaspoon of cream of tartar, one teaspoon of cinnamon, half a teaspoon of allspice, one-quarter of a teaspoon of cloves, and one-quarter of a teaspoon of nutmeg, mix well and add half a cup of seedless raisins and half a cup of chopped nut meats; pour the mixture into a buttered and floured baking pan and bake one hour in a moderate oven.

HATE HYMN IS DEADENED

RUHR'S STRONGEST DESIRE NOW IS TO LIVE.

Germans Believe Path Is Now Open for Final Settlement With France Which Will Give Ruhr Work.

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—The Ruhr hymn of hate is deadened.

The curses that greeted French occupation one year ago today have been stilled. Hate still burns in many a Ruhrite's heart, but the desire to live is the strongest passion that the Ruhr now shows.

And, the Ruhr, despite months of "passive resistance," followed by a hunger wave, now believes that the path is opening to a final settlement with France which will give the Ruhr and Rhineland a chance to work.

The preliminary agreement between the German industrialists and the French "Micum" will probably be extended. And, the Ruhr and Rhineland believe that there are signs of a real adjustmert—a hard bargain, perhaps, but better for Germany than trying to dodge reparations burdens and having to fight French counter-actions.

Must Pay France.

Ruhr and Rhineland magnates are now staring facts squarely in the face—for the first time since the war. Impartial outside business men say that the industrialists have realized that they must pay, and are adjusting themselves to this program.

This means that German industry is going to come back. It will be a long process, this paying. But, the terrible specter of starvation and unemployment are destined in the next months to subside according to business men's calculations.

Whether the Rhine and Ruhr fall definitely under French domination is still a question. The French willingness to reduce its occupation forces is regarded here as a slight concession. But, the plans for a Rhenish currency (French-franc supported) is a nut which the Berlin government has had trouble to crack.

Sounding speeches about inseparability of Rhine and Ruhr from their mother land, Prussia, do not alter some cold facts that the French occupation plus certain Berlin government mistakes, have caused a certain estrangement.

Nor do such speeches change one iota the realization that the forthcoming reparations conditions will inevitably cause a certain aleration in the form of governmental and economic connection between the industrial region and the rest of Germany.

The Stinnes concerns are already readjusting their trust arrangements, taking into consideration the fact that there is at least an invisible, tho real, barrier between occupied and unoccupied zones.

Costly to Berlin.

The Rhine and the Ruhr have eaten the already delapidated Berlin treasury out of cash. Trying to support the unemployed has been a problem which no cabinet has been able to solve satisfactorily.

For a time, the government considered throwing the occupied area to the French with the demand, "You take care of these people under The Hague land-war convention." This roused a storm and the idea was abandoned.

But since then there has been hundreds of governmental conferences, wherein the question of a temporary separation or at least an alteration in relation which would free the central treasury, has been discussed.

The Rhine and Ruhr undoubtedly want to remain German.

But they realize that financial questions make it probably impossible to retain now the old forms of governmental and economic relation which prevailed before the horizon-blue forces swept into Essen and other big cities in Germany's coal district.

FARMER DENIES BURGLARY

Claim That Property Taken From Store Was Planted by Enemy in His Kitchen.

Attorney for William Welter, Otoe county farmer, convicted in Johnson county on a charge of burglarizing the Eversole store at Elk Creek, argued in supreme court Friday that he was the victim of malice, and that he should not be compelled to serve the three to six year sentence imposed.

They told the court that the principal witness against Welter was a man who owns a farm on the bluffs, a section of the county where bootleggers operate and burglars cache thier stuff. He said that Welter, while going past in an automobile, told him he would find some tobacco in a granary and to help himself. He also said that the day after the burglary Welter and Jacey Banker drove up to his place and Banker offered to trad enim a rifle that was later identified as part of the property stolen the same night from a hardware store.

Officers unearthed on the bluffs a tool chest containing a lot of stolen goods, and found three pairs of gloves hidden in a box behind the stove in the Welter kitchen. Welter's attorney said their belief is that the fellow from the bluffs planted them there, and two of Welter's hired men say they saw a man slink out of the house and run down the road.

DENIES BOTHERED BY UNITT

Neighbors Testify Woman Suing Omaha Official Is Untruthful.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 11—Mrs. Mary Dopita, a courthouse scrubwoman testifying in the case of Mrs. Antonia Jankowski, denied that she had ever told of being bothered by Charles Unitt, county commissioner.

She testified that Ray Lones, attorney for Mrs. Jankowski in her suit against Unitt, came to her and asked if Unitt had ever bothered her. "I told him 'no,' and asked why he wanted to know," she testified. She said Lones told her Mr. Jankowski was jealous of his wife and wanted to know if he had reason to be.

"Didn't you tell me that Unitt had bothered you and you gave me the names of two other women he had been bothering too?" Lones asked Mrs. Dopita. She denied this.

CLAM DIGGER IS BACK HOME

"ELLY" BASSETT TRYING TO SEE HIS WIFE.

Whole Population of Madison, Conn., Turns Out to Witness the Proposed Reconciliation Effected.

MADISON, Conn., Jan. 11.—Madison's population,—the whole thousand of it—was up bright and early today to witness the struggle of "Elly" Bassett, who grew up as a "handy" young man around the village, battle his way back into the confidence of his wife, who is pride of the town girls basketball team.

"Elly" as his home folks long have know him, is back after resigning his job as personal representative of Nina Wilcox Putnam, a job which brought from his wife this week the charge that he had left his family for the noted novelist. After two unsuccessful attempts to see Mrs. Bassett last night and explain, "Elly" and his wife spent the night in adjoining homes along the Boston post road near the edge of this seaside village.

Mrs. Bassett remained with a girl friend and team mate on the girls basketball team, while Bassett was housed by his friend Harrison Dowd, a writer who is also a friend of Mrs. Putnam.

Among the first up in the village today was Bassett. He was ready for a fresh and supreme effort to see his wife.

"I have come more than half way," he said. "I am prepared to come still further if she will forget the hideous falsehoods she has been hearing about Mrs. Putnam.

"I think she will talk to me when we meet face to face. We need only a few words together. She will believe me."

But Mrs Bassett apparently was not conciliatory. She sent out word she would not see her husband.

"Tell him," she said, "to see my lawyer."

Bassett called his mother-in-law on the telephone in a second attempt. But his wife was "out." No, he couldn't see his boy, Adrian, because "he is in bed."

There was one more chance. There was a practice basketball game scheduled between the high school girls team and the town girls, among the latter of whom Mrs. Bassett is a star player.

But as the high school girls began to warm up the word went out that the town girls had defaulted the match.

"Elly" went out into the night again somewhat crestfallen and dejected. But this morning he was feeling more hopeful again. At noon Mrs. Bassett was to resume her duties at the library and Bassett hoped to see her then.

Meantime mutual friends are smiling and waiting.

"You know—she's only teaching Elly a lesson," they said.

Joe Dundee of Baltimore weighing 136 1-2 pounds, won the judge's decision over Teddy Marchant of England, 138 1-2.

INVENTOR OF A NEW DRINK

Humboldt Man Has Prdouct Called Grainola.

HUMBOLDT, Neb., Jan. 11.—Glenn K. Shroyer, son of J. O. Shroyer of this county, has originated a cereal from a combination of grains that when properly prepared into a drink, is much like coffee in taste. It has been registered under the name "Grainola." It has been chemically analyzed by the state authorities of Illinois. The manufacturing of the article has been done at his farm home, northeast of this city. He has just received a new consignment of one thousand cans and wrappers. Grainola is in use in limited quantities in many parts of this state and Iowa. A large wholesale grocery house has asked for the sale of the product.

LATE NEWS OF YESTERDAY

BRYAN WILL HAVE A HAND

PRESENCE IN WASHINGTON TO BE COINCIDENTAL.

Happens to Be Going On Business and Will Run Right Into Meeting of the National Committee.

Governor Bryan's announcement of his intention to leave Saturday for Washington was made before he had an opportunity of perusing a letter placed on his desk by the state senate investigating committee which asks him to appear before that committee next Wednesday. Secretary Radke had so many callers to entertain in the governor's reception room that he failed to place the letter before the governor. It proved to be another piece of bad luck for the committee which once before asked the governor to testify before it in regard to his charges of a probable deficit in the road construction funds.

The governor on the first occasion had to attend an appointed monthly meeting of the pardon board. Now the indications are he will be in Washington on the day the senate committee desires his personal presence in Lincoln.

The governor said he had some official matters he desired to attend to in Washington next week, such as a little intercession on his behalf with the Nebraska delegation in congress in favor of the poor and against the wealthy, also against the Mullen tax bill and in favor of the democratic tax bill. He thinks he may have time also to look into road construction work in Nebraska from the Washington end.

It is considered a mere co-incidence that the national democratic committee will meet in Washington next Tuesday. Governor Bryan is not a member of that committee and has no interest in its deliberations further than that he and his brother William J. Bryan will be there to do all they can to prevent the committee from holding the national convention in New York, as they consider the New York movement a scheme of the wets and against the progressive wing of the democratic party.

To Leave Nothing Undone.

They will leave nothing undone to help locate the convention at Chicago, a city which can be reached by more democrats of the country with the least possible outlay of money. Governor Bryan has insisted from the beginning of the presidential campaign talk that the fight of the democrats will be won or lost in the great middle west where he resides.

Governor Bryan not being a member of the national committee will put in most of the time when in Washington helping his brother prepare a statement soon to be issued. This statement will indicate quite plainly what policies candidates on the democratic ticket must subscribe to in order to obtain the support of the progressive portion of the democratic party, a well known wing of the party with which Mr. Bryan and Governor Bryan are closely identified. The statement may be used as a basis for a democratic national platform which the Bryans will favor on behalf of the aforesaid progressive element of the party.

When these chores are completed Governor Bryan will be free to spend his time conferring with the Nebraska delegation in congress, looking in and about federal departments in search of information relating to road construction work in his home state and by that time it will be too late to tell the state senate committee what he knows about probable deficits in road construction funds, if the deficit still exists at that time. He will be able to make personal investigations and ascertain whether something can be done about the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence tidewater way, or about irrigation rights between Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming and whether or not something can be done to make it easier for settlers on reclamation lands in western Nebraska who cannot make payments.

W. H. Thompson of Grand Island, national committeeman whom Arthur Mullen proposes to defeat at the next primary election, will attend the national committee meeting.

The rooms of Glass Acres were decorated with cotton and icicles to represent a snow storm. Green and white was the color scheme and was carried out in the favors. There were four favor dances, the first being a carnation dance, the other favors were white powder puffs tied with green and white bows, bamboo canes with green and white streamers and dolls dressed in green and white. Punch, wafers and candies were served during the evening. During the intermission H. V. R. Brown sang "In the Garden of My Heart" and other selections. He was accompanied by Miss Anne Bauer of Horton, Kas. The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sirenson of Casper, Wyo.; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kile, Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Ea[illegible], Miss Bauer of Horton, Kas., and Mr. Brown. The committee in charge of arrangements were Mr. Harry Bowman, Mrs. H. D. Er[illegible] and Mrs. R. R. Kelly.

One hundred and twenty-five couples attended the informal Shrine [illegible] party given under the auspices of the Arab patrol Thursday evening at the Scottish Rite temple. [illegible] lamps were given to the ladies as favors. The committee in charge of the arrangements included Ray Farquhar, Lee Arey and Jerry Latsch.

Eutopia dancing club entertained forty couples at an informal party at Rosewild Thursday evening. There [illegible] dances and a lunch was served during the intermission. The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Riley, Mr. and Mrs. Will Assenmacher, Mr. and Mrs. Frank DeBrown, Mrs. Helen Griffen and Neil Hompes, Mr. and Mrs. James Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Carper. The committee in charge were: Mrs. J. H. Johnson, chairman; Mrs. A. H. Koenig, Mrs. George Westtall, Mrs. Fritz Harris and Mrs. Leonard Gettier.

At the monthly pre-medic meeting held at the Grand hotel Thursday evening, the women pre-medics of the university were in charge of the program. The women, twenty in number, invited a number of Lincoln's women doctors as guests. A banquet was given with about 200 pre-medics present, and Mrs. Bertha Thompson, who is a medical missionary in India now home on a furlough, told of the opportunities for medical work in India and spoke of the diseases of that country. India has all the diseases of this country and a number of others, according to Mrs. Thompson. Between courses, Mary Fauchtman sang a number of selections.

The Lincoln business women's league held its monthly meeting and dinner at the Grand hotel Thursday evening. Forty-five were present.

SAPIRO TALKS TO FARMERS

DISCUSSES BETTER MEANS OF MARKETING PRODUCE.

Tells Audience at Agricultural College That Tried Business Methods and Not Politics Will Prove Best Plan.

Aaron Sapiro, marketing expert, was one of the star attractions at the Thursday afternoon session of Organized Agriculture. Mr. Sapiro is a rapid-fire talker who has made co-operative marketing the subject of hundreds of addresses, and this also enables him to shift the angle of observation to suit the particular part of the farming industry that he discusses.

Mr. Sapiro insisted that cooperative marketing as practiced generally in Nebraska has followed wrong lines, and that is why better results have not been obtained. He was also quite sure that if any marketing association is able to take its contracts to the bankers and show him what is back of their business, it will have no trouble to get all the money it needs.

Organization must be on a nonprofit basis. Such an organization is for the sole purpose of giving service. Speculation must be absolutely barred. He advised that no outsider be admitted. He frowned on voting by proxies. If a member of the board of directors is unable to be present he should mail his vote.

An interlocking directorate is dangerous and should not be permitted. He advocated short terms for directors. He advised always the written contract. Such would prove of the greatest advantage if for five to seven years or longer. The grower of the smallest crop must stand on the same financial footing as the big one. Marketing contracts must be enforceable.

Prosperity has come to the California farmer since he has made a success of co-operative marketing. He leads in rural comfort and rural education. Such associations are wrecked by poor management, no matter if they are born with the right principle. Some have hit the rocks because they have hired talkers instead of managers of business ability and vision. Cotton growers' organization now pays $50,000 a year for a manager. It was his idea that such men are worth all that they are paid, no matter if the salary is a big one.

Nebraska has the soil and the markets and a high class of farmers and he did not see any reason why if they properly organized they should not make a success of co-operation. Nebraska should no longer lag. A co-operative marketing wheat association in the state to function right must have control of 10,000,000 bushels.

BREEDERS ELECT OFFICERS

H. J. McLaughlin Again Heads Organization — Stockmen and Dairymen Banquet.

The Nebraska Improved Livestock Breeders' association chose officers for the ensuing year at a meeting at the Lincoln hotel Thursday evening. They are:

President, H. J. McLaughlin, Doniphan.
Secretary, M. H. Posset, Lincoln.
Assistant secretary, W. E. Wiebeburg, [illegible].
Treasurer, Howard [illegible], Lincoln.
Messrs. McLaughlin, [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible].

The officers were highly commended for saving the tuberculosis appropriation to the state which it was declared would save millions of dollars to the stockmen.

The joint annual banquet of the Nebraska Improved Livestock Breeders' association and the Nebraska Dairymen's association was held at 6 o'clock at the hotel. Over two hundred members and their ladies were present. Music and fun-making were features. An orchestra played during the feast.

Frank D. Tomson of Lincoln was toastmaster. Those who responded were ex-Congressman W. L. Nelson of Columbia, Mo.; Arthur Thomson, Lincoln; J. R. Fitch, Manhattan, Kas., and Dean Vivian of the Ohio agricultural college. Mrs. Altinas Tullis sang several numbers. Among them were:

[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
Norman [illegible] played the [illegible] accompaniment.

CHEST PLAN IS PRAISED

MAY BE EXTENDED TO THE SUBURBAN TOWNS.

Annual Meeting of Organization Held and Officers Elected for Coming Year—May Hold Drive in March.

Representatives of welfare organizations taking part in the community chest expressed themselves as very well pleased with the first year's work of the organization at the annual meeting held Thursday evening at the chamber of commerce.

There was a general expression of pleasure over the fact that each organization is freed of worry over financing various activities. Not one of the representatives had a dissenting opinion.

It was proposed that the work of the community chest be extended to the suburban towns about Lincoln, and after some discussion this question was referred to the executive committee with power to act.

No campaign manager will be employed by the organization for the next drive for funds, it was decided. The members expressed their belief that the original drive last year was greatly benefitted by the campaign manager employed, but that since the missionary work has been accomplished it will not be necessary to repeat it.

The recommendation was made to the executive committee that the time of the drive for subscriptions be set for the month of March, it being believed that this would be a better time of year than later in the spring as last year.

Selection of President.

Selection of a president also was left to the executive committee after two unsuccessful attempts to nominate a president. A motion to have the secretary cast a unanimous ballot for the re-election of all former officers apparently found favor with those present, but President W. A. Selleck interrupted and requested that he be allowed to withdraw his name. This they permitted him to do, and a nominating committee then chose Verne Hedge to head the community chest corporation. Mr. Hedge, however, likewise begged to be permitted to withdraw, and altho half a dozen speeches were made urging him to accept the nomination, he declared that he would not have time to do the work of the office and he was allowed to withdraw.

The cost of administration of the chest to January 1, 1924, totaled $6,452.53, of which $2,517.78 was spent in the original campaign, $98.08 was for office expense, and the balance for salaries of stenographers and postage and incidentals.

Subscriptions amounted to $96,373.23, of which $77,244.84 was paid and $19,128.39 remains to be collected. There were in all 6,899 subscribers to the chest.

Assets of Corporation.

The present assets of the corporation include $3,343.63 in cash in the bank, $25 in petty cash, $10,000 in bonds and securities, $19,128.39 in unpaid subscriptions, and $24.45 overpaid on the budget of the humane society.

There is a deficit of $2,669.86 in the surplus fund, according to the annual report of the treasurer.

With the exception of the president, all former officers were reelected. There were a few changes in the membership of the executive committee. Those elected are as follows:

Dr. B. F. Bailey, vice president.
J. J. Ledwith, vice president.
O. J. Fee, secretary.
C. C. Carlsen, treasurer.
Executive committee:

N. Z. Snell	J. E. Miller
W. A. Luke	Don Love
W. S. Yates	Mrs. W. Whitfield
Lincoln Frost	Labor delegate
Mrs. Fred Eiche	Elmer E. Henkle
George Dayton	W. E. Hardy
August Eiche	E. C. Folsom
J. E. Kirschman

MERE MENTION

About one hundred couples attended the Shrine ball held on Thursday evening in the Scottish Rite temple. This is one of a series of dances to be held at stated times thru the winter.

The Hi Y held a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening to discuss plans for the "Find Yourself Campaign" to be held January 24. C. C. Robinson of New York will address the boys at that time. Two hundred are expected to be present from the five Hi Y clubs in Lincoln and vicinity.

Fire was reported at the Payne glove factory, 105 North Ninth, at 7:35 Thursday night, but firemen responding to the call could locate no blaze altho there was an odor of fire. A fire alarm was given from 2107 D at 5:28 p. m. Thursday, where a chimney burning out had caused a small blaze.

Lillian D. Lawrence filed a petition in the district court Thursday afternoon asking a divorce from Ralph C. Lawrence on the grounds of extreme cruelty and non-support. The couple were married in Littleton, Colo., October 23, 1917. There are no children. Mrs. Lawrence asks that she be granted a reasonable amount of both temporary and permanent alimony and that her husband be ordered to pay her attorney's fees and the costs of the suit.

Maggie Fairegeles, 926 K suffered a bad shock late Thursday afternoon when she slipped on the ice covered sidewalk at Tenth and O streets, striking the back of her head. She was immediately carried into the Terminal drug store by two men who witnessed the accident and Dr. E. D. Cummins, whose office is in the Terminal building, was summoned. Mrs. Fairegeles was at first unconscious but soon recovered. She was taken to her home. According to Dr. Cummins her injuries are not serious.

POLICE CHIEF QUIT WHEN REQUESTED

L. L. Oberlin of Alliance Handed in Resignation, Following Verbal Charges of a Serious Nature.

ALLIANCE, Neb., Jan. 10.—L. L. Oberlin, chief of police for the past six months, handed in his resignation at the request of City Manager N. A. Kemmish on Sunday afternoon. Oberlin's successor has not been appointed, but several applicants are being considered.

Oberlin's withdrawal follows many serious verbal charges, some of them of a criminal nature, which have been repeated to practically every person in town during the past few weeks. The charges made to the city manager by those who claim to know include accepting favors from gamblers and showing too much interest in the opposite sex.

Oberlin denied the charges when summoned before the city manager two or three weeks ago and he was continued in the service. Recently the reports have grown in number and volume until Mr. Kemmish concluded to request his resignation.

The chief has never been a popular officer.

Some of these charges concerned other members of the department as well as Mr. Oberlin. All of them were made to the city manager, but he seemed to be satisfied that they were vindictive and the result of Oberlin's policy of rigid law enforcement, and because of this no official action was taken.

Mr. Oberlin and his adopted daughter who has been making her home with the family since they came to Alliance, left last night in his car for Omaha. Their trunks were shipped by express to that city. Mrs. Oberlin has been visiting friends in Grand Island for several weeks.

CALVIN BRADER IS SUED FOR DIVORCE

Charges of Unfaithfulness Brought by His Wife, and Counter Charges Made by the Defendant.

Calvin Brader of Omaha, formerly of Lincoln, is defendant in a divorce suit brought by his wife, Ethel Maude Brader, who were married in Lincoln in 1910. The following account of the divorce case is given in the Omaha Bee:

A continuance to give time for the arrival of several witnesses was granted by District Judge Day in the divorce suit brought by Ethel Maude Brader against her husband, Calvin Brader, Omaha musician.

The Brader case is attracting much attention, especially in professional musical circles, and court officials predict it will be an extraordinarily hard fought one.

The Braders, married in Lincoln, were once separated by a divorce decree, but a reconciliation followed. It lasted for only a short time, however.

The defendant, Calvin Brader, is a prominent Omaha musician. The plaintiff, Ethel Maude Brader, is "merely the mother" of his two children.

Their matrimonial difficulties began shortly after their marriage in Lincoln in 1910. There have been confessions, reconciliations, property agreements; but both declare they have been of no avail.

Mrs. Brader filed her suit for divorce in 1922. She alleged cruelty, stipulated that a property settlement had been made, and on August 14, 1922, was awarded a decree and custody of their two children, Leiland Calvin, 7, and Dorothy Irene, 8.

A short time later there was a reconciliation. But it was short lived and on December 22 Mrs. Brader filed her second suit for divorce. She declared he had been treating her with "studied indifference" since their reconciliation, when their first decree of divorce had been set aside.

Mrs. Brader charged in her second suit that her husband loved another woman, and declared this woman was Peggy Penrod, 1821 Davenport street. He had agreed to forget Peggy and devote himself entirely to her, she declared.

"But he failed to reform," she asserted.

Then came Brader's cross petition, the content of which were not made known until yesterday. Mr. Brader asserts that when they agreed to have the first decree set aside they did it with the mutual understanding that "we would both go our own way and have our own friends."

Brader then told of an alleged confession which his wife is said to have made to him in St. Joseph, Mo., that she had loved other men.

The first man was David Nelson of Lincoln, whose manly charms attracted her shortly after they were married, his petition states. The second co-respondent named is James Fairey of Minneapolis, where the Braders resided from 1917 to 1919. The third "Don Juan" was a St. Paul man, according to the petition, which fails to give his name.

Brader's chief complaint, however, is based on the charge that Mrs. Brader refused to quit working after their reconciliation and that she did not bring their children home from "boarding school" even after the parents were reunited despite her agreement to do so.

Earle Ticknor, attorney, who represented Mrs. Brader in her first case, is now representing Brader in the second suit.

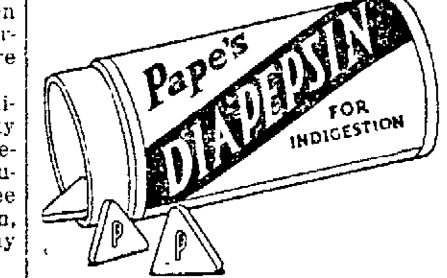

Brader plays at the World theater, gives music lessons and is prominent in Omaha musical circles.

Why Women Look 60 at 40

With dark circles under their eyes, sallow complexions, drawn expressions drooping shoulders, a lagging step, many women of forty have the appearance of women of sixty. In many cases this condition is caused by overwork or neglect of such warning symptoms, as headaches, backache, nervousness, displacements, and irregularities which indicate ailments peculiar to women. If all women so afflicted would only rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound it would restore them to a normal healthy condition, and the premature signs of age will soon disappear.—Advertisement.

Western League Step Nearer; Huskers Play Kansas Ags.

CHICAGO MEETING HASTENS ACTION

President Tearney Says Franchise Will Be Disposed of Within Next Ten Days—Who Will Get Club?

O. A. Beltzer, president of the Lincoln state league club returned Friday morning from Chicago where he attended the conference held with a view to removal of the Sioux City franchise here.

"Provided Lincoln fans go thru with the plan to buy the park, Western league baseball is assured," he said.

Muskogee, Okla., is still trying to land a Western league berth but those in control made no bones of the fact that they want to come to Lincoln, Mr. Beltzer stated.

"Provided Lincoln goes thru with the plan, the schedule meeting of the league would probably be held here immediately afterward," he said.

Altho he did not meet him, Beltzer learned that Wakefield who is said to have an option on the Sioux City franchise, is not only a veteran ball player but has plenty of money.

Beltzer reiterated C. N. Moon's statement that the Lincoln owners would step down in case the Western wants Wakefield to take charge of the club. "We are doing our best to get Class A baseball for Lincoln and from what I learned I think Wakefield would make a great man at the head of the club," Beltzer said.

Announcement was made from Chicago Thursday night that transfer of the Sioux City Western league franchise to Lincoln was a step nearer as a result of a meeting there attended by representatives from Des Moines and Lincoln, presided over by President Tearney. The Western league president indicated that the franchise would be disposed of within the next ten days.

This announcement comes at the psychological moment. The joint committee of the different civic clubs is now busy putting the matter before the different clubs and thus far full support has been promised by the Pathfinder and Lions. Kiwanians will get a chance to act on it Friday and Saturday the joint committee meets again.

Who Gets Franchise?

With every indication pointing to the success of the present plan, now comes the question of who will get the franchise.

President Tearney is touting Howard Wakefield, former major leaguer, who, according to Chicago dispatches, has an option on the Sioux City franchise.

The Western league has always favored old time ball players as managers and the success of such men as Spencer Arthur Abbott, veteran first-sacker in the Western who later managed Tulsa and won a pennant the first year the club was placed in the Oklahoma oil metropolis, justifies it. Then he went to the Southern association and copped a pennant there. Last year he managed Reading, Pa., in the International league and had great success there.

C. N. Moon, one of the Lincoln state league owners, who, under the plan as it now stands would get the Western franchise, stated Friday morning that he did not think his associates would stand in the way a minute if the Western demands Wakefield be given the Lincoln franchise.

Willing to Step Down.

"We are willing to step down in favor of Wakefield in case the league insists on him," Mr. Moon stated "We are anxious to aid in any way possible to get Class A baseball here"

ROBERT KING.

This is "Bob" King who shows the qualities that will provide considerable embarrassment to opposing guards. King loops 'em in from all angles. He was captain of the second-stringers last year but should advance this year to Coach Browne's select group. In the Alliance game, King gave his more experienced teammates the hoof and caged five field counters in the few minute he was in action.

Aggies Trim the Crete High Team

"Bob" Russell's University Aggies gave the Crete high school basket tossers a 10 to 2 trimming on the university armory court Thursday night. The visiting five failed to register in the scoring column until a few seconds before the final whistle blew when Parker threw a field basket from the sidelines.

Weyand, Aggie captain, was high point man with six tallies. King and Cox both played good floor games for the winners. Harry Kersenbrock, the Saline county center, who stands six feet, nine and one-half inches in his socks, could not locate the basket and his mates suffered the same fate. Captain Parker played the most consistent game for the losers.

In a preliminary game, the Cathedral quintet outshot the Temple high cagesters, 30 to 13. "Shorty" Parshall, former Lincoln high forward, was the leading goal shooter, with nine baskets. Storm and Buckley accounted for most of the Temple high total. The summary:

FIVE RING CHAMPS TO PASS IN 1924

Farrell Predicts Law of Average Will Tear Quintet of Boxers From Throne During Present Year.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Several young men who were sitting high and handsome this time last year as ring champions are now members in good standing of that widely represented "Once Was" club.

Several of the young men who are now out in front have been proposed for membership in the "Has Beens" and they'll be eligible for admission before another year rolls around.

If for no other reason than there is a potent law of averages that does tricks, five and maybe more champions will pass out in 1924.

This is only a guess, and it's not worth more than any guess.

Five world's champions slipped away in 1923 and the same number are dangerously near the slide this year, because they seem to lack the class to hold them up against stiff competition.

Jack Dempsey, Benny Leonard and Mickey Walker will not lose their titles this year.

Dempsey and Leonard Safe.

Dempsey and Leonard are too good to be in danger from any opponent they may have to meet, and Walker is safe because he will not take a chance.

Mike McTigue is sure to lose the light-heavyweight championship the first time he meets a good contender.

Harry Greb is slipping and he will have more trouble making the middleweight limit as he grows older.

Johnny Dundee will lose the featherweight championship because he has gone back greatly and age is beginning to show on him.

Joe Lynch, the worst of all the title holders, will lose the bantamweight championship, if he can be forced to meet a good contender.

Pancho Villa will drop the flyweight championship because he is getting too heavy for the class and he is none too safe as he is now.

Dempsey will not defend his title more than two times because the purses that he would receive in three big fights would put him in a class in the income tax law where he would have to turn over to the government practically all of the purse of his third fight.

It was this little tax difficulty that forced Dempsey to call off the year's activity last year after the Firpo fight.

Dempsey will make a choice of Firpo, Wills or Gibbons when he selects the victim for his 1924 campaign.

Gibbons probably will be left out of consideration, because promoters feel that he would not draw as well as Firpo or Wills, and because Dempsey is not anxious to have any more of the St. Paul fighter.

Gibbons Lacks the Size.

Gibbons lacks only weight and size to make him a real contender for the heavyweight championship, and while Dempsey probably would defeat him if they met again, there is no assurance that the champion would win by a knockout. Dempsey cannot fight well against a smaller and faster man, and he would gain no prestige, because Gibbons would stand him off for more rounds than Dempsey likes to go.

Dempsey will stop Firpo if they meet again, because the champion never will be enough of a sap to fight again as he fought against the South American last summer.

As far as the priority right to a chance at the title is concerned, Harry Wills is the outstanding contender and deserves the first crack at Dempsey this year.

Wills is not only stronger and bigger than any of the contenders, but he has never had a chance, while Firpo and Gibbons both have been defeated by the champion.

Many smart boxing men believe that the colored challenger would be a cinch for Dempsey and would be easier than Firpo or Gibbons, but the fact remains that this should be proved by a fight, as it is the only way it can be proven.

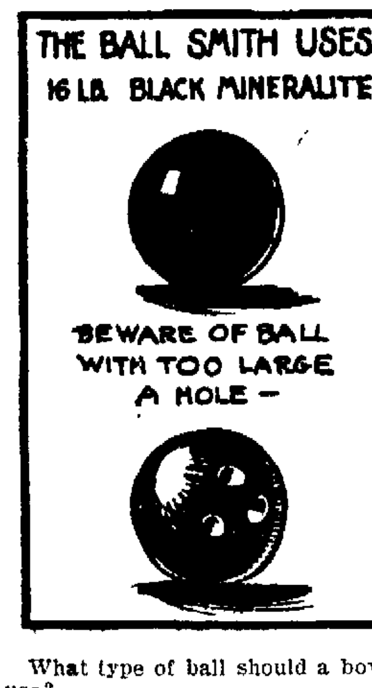

There is not one good reason why Wills should be deprived of a fight with Dempsey. It is the bunk to have any fear that serious race troubles would result if Wills should happen to win.

Dempsey is not the hero of the white race by any means, and he is not a popular champion with the general public. Far more danger of race disturbances can result from a feeling of discontent among the colored population when it is felt that a representative of their race is barred from making an honest living because of his color than would come from an actual test of the fighting ability of the two races.

The champion, it is sincerely believed, is not responsible for the conditions that have kept Wills on a sidetrack for three years, while less deserving fighters have had their cut at the big money.

If the word is given, Dempsey will fight Wills this year.

LITTLE LESSONS IN BOWLING

Answered by JIMMY SMITH.

Three times winner in all events of the American Bowling Congress, a record which no other bowler has ever approached. Famed for his ability to control a curved ball.

Each bowler should make up his mind once for all what type of ball is best for him to use and then use no other. Personally I use a black mineralite, No. 16 in weight. I like such a ball better than a mottled ball which has a higher finish and does not curve so readily.

GIBBONS GETS ONE MORE TITLE CRACK

Tangible Evidence That Championship Bout Cinched Is Lacking But Tex Rickard Declares It's On.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Tommy Gibbons who stayed fifteen rounds with Jack Dempsey in Shelby last July will get another chance at the title here early next summer. Tex Rickard late yesterday made a proposition which was accepted by Eddie Kane, manager of Gibbons.

No contracts were signed, no date was set and the champion hasn't agreed to the proposition but Rickard apparently was sure of his ground when he said "the fight is on."

The date probably will be on Memorial day or early in June and will be staged in the Polo grounds.

Indians Outclass Midland Quintet

FREMONT, Neb., Jan. 10.—Haskell's band of writhing, twisting basket-shooting Indians easily outplayed the Midland quintet here tonight by a score of 38 to 18 Altho Midland took the lead at the start and kept on the heels of the redskins thruout the entire first half, the Haskell tribe uncorked a superior brand of team-work in the latter period that left the Midlanders in the lurch.

Big John Levi was there at center but he didn't exert himself too greatly. The basket-shooting star of the visitors proved to be Hildebrand, who substituted for George Levi when the latter was injured. Hildebrand chalked up 16 of Haskell's points. Dugan, Haskell right guard, displayed a wonderful class of defense and offense work.

Cunningham and Horn were the main stays of the Midland quintet and figured greatly in breaking up many Haskell shots and Midland's floor work. Winkleman and Horn piled up six points for Midland before Haskell got started. At the half, the redmen were leading by a 16 to 8 score. The line up:

Midland—		—Haskell
Winkleman	rf	Carpenter

PRINCIPALS ARE IN BEST OF SHAPE NOW

Both Krieger and Hanson Taper Off for Match Friday Evening—Farmer Burns Is Third Man in Ring.

Adam Krieger and Fritz Hansen were unanimous in reporting themselves in fine fettle for their match at the Orpheum, Friday evening. Krieger finished training Thursday and scaled around 154 while Hanson who has been working out here since Monday said he was weighing 158. That is the stipulated weight he must make at 5 p. m. Friday.

Hanson has been wrestling in the south for the past eight or nine years altho he is originally from Worcester, Mass. He started in the mat game when fifteen years old and has been at it for fifteen years.

The match with Krieger will be Hanson's first in some time as he suffered from boils and in his last match several months ago his opponent jarred all of his front teeth loose "I'm in the best of shape now," he said.

Hanson has a victory over Joe Turner which he won last June in straight falls. Turner held Krieger to one fall and Adam won the decision. Hanson wrestled three hours to a draw with Waino Ketonen and the bout was stopped by police. Hanson said there was a $1,000 side bet in that match and that he was getting all the best of it when Ketonen's backers insisted on the bout being stopped on account of rough tactics.

"It was rough all right Ketonen kept jarring my head back with his elbow. Finally I warned him not to do it again. When he refused to stop I punched him with my fist," Hanson said.

Roy Chick, Sidney, Neb., and John Krieger, Lincoln, appear in the preliminary The preliminary match starts at 8 p m.

THIRD START FOR NEBRASKA ON TAP

Drake Goes Against Kansas in Other Friday Conference Contest Minus Captain Bill Boelter.

BY JOHN BENTLEY.

Nebraska's basketeers go against the Kansas Aggies at the university armory Friday evening in the third game of the conference season. It starts at 7:30.

Coach Kline put his players thru a last practice Thursday but did not indicate his starting lineup The manner in which the Huskers will probably open will find Goodson at center, Black and Captain Usher at the forward positions with Volz and Tipton guarding.

Split Even Last Year.

Last year Nebraska and the Kansas Aggies split even, the Huskers winning at Manhattan, 21 to 15, and the Aggies edging out a 17 to 11 victory here.

This year the Huskers and Aggies get it over in a hurry Next Thursday the Huskers play at Manhattan which completes the home-and-home games under the round robin plan From Manhattan the Huskers journey to Kansas Friday night where they go up against last year's champions. Next Saturday night the Huskers play Oklahoma at Norman

Drake Plays the Champions.

In the other Valley game scheduled for Friday night, Drake meets Kansas at Lawrence. The Bulldogs will enter the game seriously handicapped by loss of Captain Bill Boelter who is threatneed with appendicitis and consequently unable to play.

Because of the crowds which have jammed the armory for the first two games of the season, the Nebraska athletic authorities have decided to fix up the coliseum and it will be ready for the Kansas game here January 26.

Omaha—Ace Hudkins, Lincoln, and Erwin Bige, Omaha, meet here next Friday evening in a ten round bout which is billed to settle the "lightweight championship" of Nebraska. Paul Doyle and Morrie Schlaifer appear in the main event.

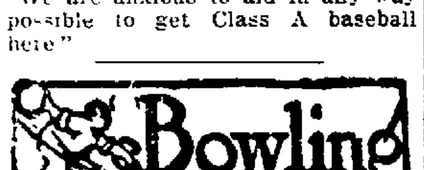

Miami, Fla. — Young Stribling knocked out Mike Nestor, New York, in the fifth of a scheduled twelve round bout here last night. Jack Dempsey was a spectator.

Wayne Five Gives Doane Drubbing

CRETE, Neb., Jan. 10.—Coach Fred Dale's Wayne five took the long end of a 31 to 10 count, in the initial state conference battle of the season staged on the Doane floor, Thursday ight.

The first period was a real battle with the visitors emerging with a two point lead. In the final period the Wayne five found itself and with Captain Best taking the initiative, made life miserable for the Doane guards. The Saline county quintet failed to register in the scoring column in the last chapter. Captain Higginbotham was the leading point maker for the Doane aggregation. Wayne will meet Cotner at Bethany Friday night, in the second stop of her eastern jaunt.

FAMOUS BASEBALL PLAYER TELLS HIS LIFE STORY

(Copyright, 1923 in U. S. and Great Britain, Cuba, Japan and S. America by N. American Newspaper Alliance. All rights res)

CHAPTER 26—MY GRAND ALL-AMERICAN TEAM.

By Hans Wagner.

This is my selection of a Grand All-American team to represent the best there has been in baseball for the past thirty years:

Manager—John J. McGraw of New York.

[illegible]—Fred Clarke of Pittsburgh

First base—George Sisler of St. Louis Browns.

S[illegible]—Napoleon Lajoie, of Philadelphia and Cleveland.

[illegible]—Jimmy Collins of Boston

[illegible]—Eddie Collins of Philadelphia and Chicago.

[illegible]—Fred Clarke of Pittsburgh.

[illegible]—Tris Speaker of Cleveland.

Right [illegible]—Ty Cobb of Detroit.

Extra outfielder—Babe Ruth of New York.

Pitchers—[illegible] King of the Cubs; [illegible] of the Giants; Ray [illegible]; [illegible] Walter Johnson of Washington; [illegible] of the [illegible]; [illegible] of the Cubs.

[illegible]

Pinch hitters—Sammy Strang and Ham Hyatt.

That team, I realize does not agree with any of those I have seen published as the choice of such men as John McGraw, Connie Mack and Babe Ruth. Neither does it agree with the team given in the guide book. The latter of course, is made in exact accordance with records, the human element not being taken into account.

All of those baseball men and the guide book, have been good enough to place me at shortstop a fact that is my greatest [illegible]. It is not for me to pass judgment on myself, naturally. I am limiting myself to a study of the players I have observed in action.

They're Honus' Own Bets.

To be prepared for a lot of argument that is sure to come I will explain in detail why I have made these selections. I have looked over the selections of others but in no way have I allowed them to influence me in making my own. Whether you agree with me or not, these are my selections and, like the fellow who went home to his wife with a poor alibi, I'm going to stick to them.

I have selected McGraw as manager because of his great record and also because of his knowledge of every angle of the game as a player as well as a manager. He knows his business. McGraw also knows how to handle men. He is a great executive as well as a field manager. At no time in his life did McGraw ever allow club owners to influence him in the signing or purchase of players. His strong will power made that possible.

With the team I have selected, however, very little managing would be necessary All my manager would have to do would be to make out a schedule and then come around on pay day. Incidentally, it would be interesting to speculate on just how much a manager would pay each of those men according to present day rates of salary. Who would get the most money?

Already I have a feeling that some of the critics will say that I have selected too many left handed hitters. They may have an idea that this team would be weak on left handed pitching. But I have taken that into consideration Every man I have selected can hit left handers as well as right handers I have purposely left out those left handed hitters who have to be taken out against southpaws in a pinch. I never thought much of a ball player, as a star hitter, who was weak against left or right handed pitching. A good hitter can hit any kind Fred Clarke, for example, was the best left handed hitter against left handed pitching that I ever saw

What the Choice is Based on.

I have taken several qualities into consideration—batting, fielding, base running and love of the game. More important, however, are brains, aggressiveness, length of service and team work.

Now when you consider length of service, which is probably the most important of all, you will see that this club would be kept on the field for many years without falling apart. There would be no worry about filling up weak places every year. Every one of those not playing now lasted fifteen years or more.

I have limited myself to five pitchers because I consider that enough. All pitchers do better with plenty of work.

My reason for selecting three catchers is that I could use Bresnahan, in a pinch, as a pitcher, an infielder or an outfielder. That is also true of McGraw. Even tho McGraw is my manager he could be used in the infield, as a pinch hitter or a base runner. He is the best I ever saw to get on base either by walking, being hit, by the pitcher or hitting the ball. I am assuming, of course, that all these players would be in their prime when I started my club on the field the first season As a matter of fact some of those had retired before the others were born I guess old Cy Young was thru when George Sisler was a baby It's sort of funny, at that, to think of old Jimmy Collins and Babe Ruth on the same team They were putting Jimmy on the all American teams of all time when Babe Ruth was born

To my club I have added pinch hitters because they are a very important part of any team nowadays. I have selected Sammy Strang and Ham Hyatt They were the best I ever saw Sammy made eleven pinch hits in a row one season

To be a good pinch hitter requires a peculiar sort of temperament, an easy-going, unexcitable disposition Both Hyatt and Strang had that. Either of them could go into a game without warming up Mighty few ball players can do that. Nothing seemed to bother them, however. The status of the game meant nothing to those boys, whether there were three on bases and a pennant depending on a hit, or not. They would simply amble up there to the old pan as if they had not even heard about what was going on.

Hard to Pass Old Friends.

I have eliminated several wonderful players because of faulty dispositions. Also I have not even considered men who ever had done anything questionable in baseball. A man who does not give his best to a club is no good on a team even if he is the best mechanical player in the world. I won't mention one or two that I have in mind, but I guess you can guess. They are better forgotten.

The hard part about this job was the elimination of certain players rather than the selection of others. It's awful hard, for instance, to leave off a man like Willie Keeler. I would like to give my reasons for leaving these old friends out but, naturally there isn't room here. I want you to remember, tho, that I have considered all of them as carefully and sincerely as I could For every one left off I have a very good reason.

There is no doubt in my mind as to the superiority of my pitching staff, even tho it doesn't agree with many others.

I'd like for somebody, tho, to show me where they could dig up five better winning pitchers than Johnson, Mathewson, Alexander, Cy Young and Ruth Waddell

In my next article I will go into detail and try to make clear my reasons for picking these men My first shot will be at the pitchers

Picking this team has given me many a laugh I get a smile every time I think of what the opposing pitchers would be up against with John McGraw on one coaching line and Fred Clarke on the other

Whether the Baker high school in Logan county was properly created was the question argued Friday afternoon in supreme court by a group of attorneys. The action is one in quo warranto brought by County Attorney Hill of Logan county against George M. Smith, Frank Predmore and J. P. Brosius, trustees. No irregularities were charged, but merely that legal inability to act existed. The effect of the new rural high school is declared to be disastrous to the county high and some other districts.

Attorneys for Robert O'Bryan of Omaha entered vigorous objections in supreme court Friday to the judgment of the jury that found him guilty of conspiracy to get money away from persons who bought stock in the Great Western Commercial Bodies company that O'Bryan was interested in an executive capacity. They presented a statement from more than half the jurors that they did not intend that Mr. O'Bryan should suffer from a jail sentence, but that a light fine was to be his punishment for his connection with the stock selling.

The state of Nebraska bought six bushels of apples Friday at a cost of $1.40 a bushel. They were bought to appease the appetites of 150 guinea pigs which the department of health and welfare houses in the dome of the old state house. The pigs are used for laboratory purposes. Sound apples without much regard to quality are required. When the price of apples goes above the price of cabbage the state furnishes cabbage for the pigs. The purchases are made thru Purchasing Agent Farris of the finance department.

The first session of the boy leadership training course, now being offered at the Y. M. C. A. was held Thursday evening with twenty-five men in attendance. The enrollment has now reached forty and will probably reach seventy by the first of the month. The purpose of the course is to train leaders for Sunday school classes of boys in the Christian citizenship training program which is now being used in many of the churches. Registration is limited to 100 boys and preference will be given to seniors and juniors. If there are other boys who wish to enroll another campaign will be promoted a little later.

Judge Morning of the district court has notified the attorney general's office that he would be pleased to have that department making showing in the case of Ward Hatcher, a Lancaster county prisoner in the penitentiary. Judge Morning contemplates releasing the prisoner by a parole from the bench unless it can be shown that the law does not permit a district judge to do this after the prisoner has been committed to prison. Hatcher was convicted of assault with intent to commit robbery. Judge Morning released a prisoner the day before Christmas by parole from the bench after reopening the case on motion of the prisoner.

During the war the custom was discontinued and was revived last year by the Kosmet Klub as a formal affair.

Dr. Woodard had lived in Clarksville about four years and was active in the Methodist church and in civic affairs. His death was sudden and is attributed to heart trouble. Besides his wife he leaves a son, Frederick, thirteen years old.

FARMER LOSES MUCH HAY.

FILLEY, Neb., Jan. 11.—Fire, the origin of which is uncertain, burned three large stacks of prairie hay, containing about 50 tons, and valued at over $600 on the farm of Mel Mason near here Thursday. Three large tarpaulins, used in covering the stacks were also burned. It is thought probable that tramps took shelter in the stacks from the storm and accidentally set them on fire. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

RULO, Neb., Jan. 11.—An oil stove in the kitchen of the farm home of Elmer Arnold, near here, exploded Thursday evening, while the family was in town, and burned the home and contents completely. The loss is estimated at over $2,000 and it is understood that no insurance was carried.

FISKE'S FATE NOW IN JURY'S HANDS

Trial of Man Held for College View Burglary Is Ended—Evidence Is Purely Circumstantial.

Lloyd D. Fiske, charged with the burglary of the College View pharmacy October 30, tried in Judge Stewart's court Thursday, now looks to the jury for his fate. His case was given into their hands at 10 o'clock Friday morning, with the conclusion of the final arguments of the opposing counsels. The evidence against him is purely circumstantial.

Three cartons of cigarets, two boxes of alleged "dope" needles, a box of face powder and some stationery, presumed to be a part of the loot taken from the store were produced by the state and identified by J. R. Everett, owner of the drug store, as having been a part of his stock.

These goods it was alleged, were found in Fiske's room, by county officers, in a Havelock rooming house. When confronted by these articles Fiske denied that he knew anything about them excepting the cigarets, and declared that they had been placed in his room by his friends without his knowledge.

Fiske's wife took the stand and identified the cigarets to be the ones she sent him from Hastings. She produced a receipt from a drug store there that showed the purchase was made shortly before the robbery of the College View store.

Fiske was arrested in Hastings in company with Albert Hance, Charles French and Grace Reese, and a joint charge of burglary placed against the entire company. Hance was tried before District Judge Broady a month ago but was freed by the jury and released.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Advertisement.

LEMON JUICE WHITENS SKIN

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also to soothe red, rough or chapped hands and face. You must mix this remarkable bleach yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Advertisement

LITTLE ENTENTE POLICY.

BELGRADE, Jan. 14.—The little entente will "support currents tending to maintain treaties and the consolidation of peace."

Behind this laconic communique which was issued today following the first meeting of foreign ministers of Jugo-Slavia, Rumanina and Czecho-Slovakia lies the direct implication that these countries propose alliance with France.

STOCKHOLDERS PLAN LOAN TO SKINNERS

Decide Unanimously to Turn Over 2 Per Cent of Par Value of Stock to Pay Off Pressing Debts.

OMAHA, Jan. 11.—Several hundred stock holders in the Skinner Packing company at a meeting here yesterday unanimously agreed to loan 2 per cent of the par value of their stock to the company in order to pay off all the pressing debts and prevent the packing plant being sold under the hammer.

Action was taken following a four hour meeting featured by a near fist fight between attorneys passing of the lie and the designation of one attorney by another as a "cur and a skunk."

The near fight resulted while G. P. North, attorney for certain stockholders suing the company was attacking the Neville receivership and also making charges against Arthur F. Mullen, Paul Skinner and others.

North declared that certain men who had been connected with the company should have been indicted. William Ritchie, jr, attorney for the company demanded if he intended to include him among these who should have been indicted.

"I don't know," North responded.

Ritchie swung a vicious right. North ducked and backed away.

"You contemptible skunck you dirty cur," Ritchie shouted.

"All right, Bill, all right," said North.

BOOZE WAR ABOUT OVER

COUNTY STRIFE BETWEEN YOUNG AND GALLIGAN.

"Prohibition Czar" and Sheriff Still in Feud—Troops Recall Not to Be Asked for Day or Two.

MARION, Ill., Jan. 11.—With an agreement reached on liquor enforcement in general, Williamson county's "booze war" simmered down today to a fight between Glenn Young, "prohibition czar" and the forces of Sheriff George Galligan over raids on saloons and homes in the county.

Three companies of state troops are still stationed here and at Herrin, Sheriff Galligan will not ask for their recall for a day or two, it was said.

Samuel Stern, ku klux klan cyclops and chairman of the Williamson county board of supervisors, promised cooperation with Sheriff Galligan.

Future warrants for liquor raids will be issued by Galligan and Stern instead of Young, whose militant leadership of "flying squadrons" of klansmen under federal deputization without the knowledge of the local authorities brought on conditions that caused Galligan to ask the governor to send the militia.

Young declared he would retain leadership of the klan raids and would continue them "with or without federal authorities."

John Layman, Galligan's trusted deputy, calling together seventy-five Herrin residents in whose homes and establishments liquor had been found, laid down the ultimatum that all bars must be removed from saloons.

Young was charged for the third time with felony today in a group of warrants sworn out by Alex Ruggeri, a baker of Herrin, charging larceny and assault. Ruggeri swore he was yanked from his bed by klan raiders under Young and forced to watch them enjoy a feast of his fresh bread and cheese.

CROSS AFRICA BY AUTO.

NEW YORK, (By Mail).—In 1924, the attempt will be made to travel by auto from Alexandria in Egypt to the Cape of Good Hope, thru the heart of Africa, including many sections where an automobile has never been seen. Baron Florio, a Rome (Italy) sportsman, is the originator of the idea and he will be accompanied by six other explorers. Four automobiles will be constructed especially for the trip, with special tires, etc., including equipment to cut their way thru heavy undergrowth.

GOVERNOR DENIES ATTACK ON M'ADOO

Washington Newsppaer Says He Discredits Everyone Connected With Wilson Administration.

Governor Bryan's attention was called Friday to the following in the Washington Star, based upon dispatches sent out from Omaha:

"In Nebraska the sensation of the week was a bitter attack by Governor Bryan on McAdoo, the governor declariug that no one connected with Former President Wilson by 'blood, marriage or association' could win in the southwest."

"I wish to deny that statement," said Governor Bryan. "I made no attack upon McAdoo or Wilson or either o tthem, or upon their relatives or associates, or upon the Wilson administration. I was discussing issues not men."

Governor Bryan is in recept of a letter from Mr. McAdoo at Los Angeles who acknowledges the governor's New Year wishes and in return reciprocates the governor's friendship.

PLEASANT DALE WOLF HUNT

More Than Two Hundred Men Part in Event Where Three Animals Are Victims.

PLEASANT DALE, Neb., Jan. 11.—A twelve section wolf hunt participated in by 200 men of Pleasant Dale and vicinity was engaged in Wednesday morning. Five coyotes were surrounded but only three were killed, the others escaping thru the ring. Henry Schroeder, Route 1, shot two of the animals and the third was killed by Ray Allen living southeast of Pleasant Dale. The coyotes have been molesting the chickens and pigs on farms in this section of the country.

Illustrated Bits: Bluster—Do you mean to say that I am a liar? Blister—I hope that could not do so ungentlemanly a thing; but I see you catch my idea.

Boils

THERE is a reason for everything that happens. Common-sense kills misery. Common-sense also stops boils! S. S. S. is the common-sense remedy for boils, because it is built on reason. Scientific authorities admit its power! S.S.S. builds blood-power, it builds red-blood-cells. That is what makes fighting-blood. Fighting-blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights pimples! It fights skin eruptions! It always wins! Mr. V. D. Schaff, 567 15th street, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I tried for years to get relief from a bad case of boils. Everything failed until I took S. S. S. I am now absolutely cured, and it was S. S. S. that did it."

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, Jan 11.—Grains closed irregular on the board of trade today. May and September showed losses, while July showed fractional advances.

July wheat worked slightly with good buying induced by Modern Miller's report that the winter crop suffered frost damage. The wheat now in the ground goes on the July market.

Corn ruled irregular, with September and July showing advances. The May delivery weakened with cash prices while distant months showed advances.

Oats was dull and featureless. July advanced at the close with that delivery in other grains.

Provisions showed some firmness later, but nevertheless closed lower.

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—Grains started higher on the board of trade but later met selling.

Wheat's strong and higher opening was attributed to strength in foreign markets. Liverpool started higher on reports that Argentine wheat arriving there is in poor condition. Receipts, 11 cars.

Fair selling for profit and by cash houses caused a relapse in corn after a higher start. Receipts, 210 cars.

Oats started unchanged to fractionally higher. Receipts, 59 cars.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Stocks were stimulated in the early trading today by the successful movement of the republican caucus in the house to sidetrack the bonus measure in favor of the tax reduction bill which will be reported out of committee February 11.

Another important constructive factor was the extraordinary jump of 11.2 points in the ratio of the federal reserve bank of New York, which broke all records for a single week's improvement.

Baldwin, selling at 127¾, led the industrial group. U. S. Steel, common, which opened at 100¼, up ⅝, also displayed impressive strength, and the rails maintained their buoyancy.

MAGNUS LOST TO WALLACE

FARMER-LABOR SENATOR LOST BY PINT OF MILK.

Declares Secretary of Agriculture Had Been Practicing and Anyway Wife Is Champion.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—Two dirt farmers, both members of Uncle Sam's governmental family, brought rural tests of skill within hailing distance of the capitol dome recently, and at the end of a spirited milking contest Henry C. Wallace, secretary of the department of agriculture, a native of Iowa, was declared winner over Magnus Johnson, senator from Minnesota.

Two patient Jersey cows, prize winners of the famous herd maintained at the United States soldiers' home, stood patiently while official, if somewhat unaccustomed, hands worked industriously. And Secretary Wallace won by a pint, according to Tasker H. Bliss, erstwhile major general, U. S. A. who descended from the dignity of commandant of the soldiers' home to referee the contest.

On Neutral Ground.

For weeks this contest had been whispered about in committee rooms of the capitol. Rumor has it that it even invaded the sacrosanct portals of the white house.

The two men met on neutral ground, far from the pastoral scenes where they first learned the gentle art of milking the cow. They worked hard. At the end a pint of creamy milk separated winner and loser. But by such small margins is victory in greater things won.

Bringing all their early training into play, the best teachings of American dairymen strove to overcome the Norse method of milking, as exemplified by Senator Johnson. The American won, but he won by taking an unfair advantage, according to the Minnesota senator, who held that the cow assigned to him had been milked but a short time before. Another of his "alibis" was that Secretary Wallace had been going out to the soldiers' home for several days in succession before the contest and to the agricultural farm at Beltsville to practice. Senator Johnson said he was very much out of practice. Anyhow, according to the Minnesota senator, he didn't do much of the milking on his farm in the northwest. It appears Mrs. Johnson is the champion of the family.

Secretary Has Confidence.

Secretary Wallace agrees that Mrs Johnson is an opponent far more to be feared than her husband, but success has added to his confidence. He believes he is the equal of the Minnesota farmer-senator at any angle of the farming game.

There is to be another contest between the pair—this time one that involves strength as well as dexterity. It will be a wood-splitting match.

If He Had Wandered.

Boston Transcript: "Twenty years ago Ikey Einstein stood on this corner selling shoe strings. Now he owns the corner." "Oy, oy! If Ikey had only valked up and down he might have owned the block."

SIDE TALKS

(By Ruth Cameron.)

Do You Love Them, Too?

Will the aeroplane ever become an old story? Will the romance and the thrill ever go out of the sight of those huge winged creatures pursuing their flight across the heavens?

Perhaps you will say it has already. I differ with you.

I was walking down a city street the other day, when we heard the sound of an aeroplane overhead. I hardly expected that sound would create any effect upon the hurrying crowds, and was ready to moralize upon the swiftness with which we become accustomed to the inconceivable and miraculous.

And Still They Gazed.

But the striking thing was not the number of people who went on their way unheeding, but the number of people who stopped and looked up.

I don't suppose there was one of the crowd who hadn't seen a hundred aeroplanes go by, but still they gazed.

It seems to me that it is because the things are so beautiful, so romantic, so thoroly dramatic in their appeal that we still thrill to them.

It didn't take us fourteen years to stop staring at the automobile, did it? It was fourteen years ago that I saw my first aeroplane rise off the ground, but I never fail to drop what I am doing and go out of doors when that deep thrilling hum announces that an aeroplane is somewhere about.

The Hum of a Giant Bee.

I love that hum, like the buzzing of a gigantic bee. It never seems to come from far off, but to be present in the room with you. There is something unmistakable about it. I sometimes think for an instant that the racing engine of an automobile stuck in the sand across our river is an aeroplane, but when I do really hear an aeroplane I have no doubts.

And I love the movement of the big dragonflies across the summer skies, their steadiness, their effect of power.

The Universal Dream.

I think one reason that the aeroplane thrills us so, is that it is a visualization of a dream which everyone has had. We haven't been dreaming all our lives of riding in a carriage that went without a horse, or of hearing messages that came thru the air without wires, but who is there who has not had his dreams of flying. How free we have felt, how vital, how powerful in those glorious dreams. And here before our eyes we see the dream made a reality.

Some day before I die (even if it's just before) I hope to fly. Perhaps I shall do so many times. Perhaps I shall live to see the aeroplane a commonplace means of transportation. But whether that be so or not, I mean to be at least once, the person who is up there in the sky instead of the person down below, enviously craning his neck.

Tomorrow—Too Much Rushing Around.

WALT MASON

The Gun.

I said to Robert Ginseng Bunn, a youth of fair renown, "It's foolishness to pack a gun, as you weave thru the town." "Oh, gaffer, these be parlous times," the goodly youth youth replied, "and godless men, intent on crimes, pervade the countryside. To me it seems there is no sense in handing out the mon without a try at self defense, and so I pack a gun." Far better dig up 50 cents than ply a gun," said I; "far better yield to strong arm gents than make the bullets fly. You cannot say whom you will kill when once you start to shoot; with slugs and buckshot you may fill some innocent galoot. One night some roughnecks bade him stop and dig the good long green, and Robert fired and shot a cop who hurried to the scene. Now ruined is his useful life, and he abides in jail, and I have heard his heartsick wife put up a bitter wail. Remorse, like some old taunting hag, is with him, face to face, as wearily the long hours drag, in sorrow and disgrace. Men say he'll be acquitted when his case is tried in court; he'll not be sentenced to the pen, or made the hangman's sport. But life will always spell despair to Robert Ginseng Bunn; how much of grief, how much of care, from carrying a gun!

Can You Beat It?

Los Angeles Times: Since the announcement that several of the studios were going to close, Hollywood Boulevard at Cahuenga has been the meeting ground of the pessimists and optimists and the arguments pro and con are interesting.

Kid Rogers, who used to be Von Stroheim's property man, is one of the glooms. He said "All this optimist talk reminds me of the epic picnic." "I suppose you had a terribly tiresome time at the picnic," remarked Mrs. G.

"Yes," said Mrs. R. "All except the professor. He found two rare bugs in the lemonade."

The British auxiliary schooner Muriel E. Winters, with approximately $100,000 worth of liquor in her holds, was tied up at the Galveston water front.

MY PORTRAIT BY ZULOAGA

Written by Julia Hoyt | Copyright

No. 24.—Zuloaga Paints My Portrait. PART II.

Bit by bit, as Sr. Zuloaga began to feel more at east with me, I heard most of his story—and an absorbing one it is. Zuliaga has, like most artists, a good deal of the child about him. He is very shy and sees comparatively few people, and like many really great people is loth to talk about himself. He is the fifth generation of artists, but for some reason his father was determined that he should not be a painter but should go to college and then into business. Zuloaga is an example of the futtility of trying to divert into other channels love for art; and in this case were added genius and iron will. Zuloaga tried to comply with his father's wishes, but, finding it impossible, went to him and told him so. He was told that it this were the case he would have to become a painter with no assistance from his family. Nothing daunted, he departed from Paris, not speaking a word of French and with twenty-five dollars capital. Then began a history of defeat and actual want such as one reads of in romances but hardly believes to be true. He painted some canvases while he still had a little money but no dealer would consider them. Two paintings which he offered at 500 francs for both he has since sold at $10,000 apiece. He finally sank to such a point that he would go with a picture under each arm and offer them for a piece if meat or cheese and bread.

Finally discouraged by his lack of success and his lack of food, but having lost none of his determination to become recognized as a painter—indeed having that extraordinary superstitious belief in himself that a genius must have to live thru such seemingly insurmountable difficulties, he decided he must somehow earn some money. He managed to collect enough money on some of his canvases to return to Spain and there all summer he worked in the mines as an ordinary day laborer. Eating as sparingly as possible, he succeeded in saving enough from his pay to buy paints and a large canvas. With these, during the hours when he was not working, he completed the now famous portrait of his cousins. Armed with this, he returned to Paris, where it was not only immediately bought, but recognized as the work of a great artist.

That is Zuloaga's early history, as he rather hesitatingly told it to me in moments when he could talk. In spite of the enormous prices his canvases now bring, he is not a rich man for the reason that as soon as he acquires a goodly sum of money he spends it on some work of his two idols, El Greco or Goya. Zuloaga has, I am told, one of the most beautiful places in Spain, and there is concentrated all the beauty and art that one misses in his studio in Paris. There are what are acknowledged to be the greatest of El Greco's and Goya's paintings in the world. Some day I hope I shall be able to accept his kind invitation to go to Spain and visit his home and other parts of Spain under his guidance.

There is no one more fitted to show one the beauties and the life of Spain than he, for he knows all sides. He is known and beloved by all, and is positively a god to the Gypsies—a people that have great fascination for him. He will talk to you about them by the hour, and thru his long interest in, and association with them, has acquired certain of their characteristics—notably their superstition. Never in my life have I met a man as superstitious as Zuloaga. If it were not so intensely serious to him, it would be extremely funny to a matter-of-fact Anglo Saxon. I will never forget the moment when I opened my little handbag, and exclaimed in consternation on looking into it. To my surprise, I saw Zuloaga actually turn white. In a voice almost of terror he asked me if I had broken my mirror. When I told him that I had simply forgotten my comb, he was like a child in his expressions of relief. Never upon any account would he allow me to say that the portrait was going to be good. "It would be the most terrible luck," he would say, "Wait, wait until it is finished."

Needless to say, many people have tried to persuade him to come to America and he has been offered the most dazzling commissions as inducement. Heretofore his terror of the water has been too strong, tho when I was in Paris he was for the first time willing to discuss it as a possibility. He is convinced he will die in the water and even if by some chance that doesn't happen, he shudders at the thought of being confined to one place for such a length of time. "Imagine," he said, "being for seven days, or whatever the length of time is, unable even to stop off at a station for a few minutes. Oh, I know I should never be able to endure it!" I hope that some day he will overcome his fears, for I feel sure this country, so different from any he has ever seen, will interest him greatly.

It is marvellous and at times almost frightening to watch Zuloaga work. For the first time I understood the expression, "He works like one inspired," for he certainly does. He has never had a lesson in painting and uses anything and everything to gain the effect he wants—a knife, his fingers, brushes. As he works he very rarely talks, but works himself almost into a frenzy, breathing very hard, making strange little sounds and at times talking to himself in Spanish. I felt sure that there were moments when it was a good thing that Spanish is an unknown language to me.

While he is painting a portrait it is his life. He rarely leaves his studio while it is in progress, and, as he expressed it, eats, sleeps, dreams and talks the portrait. He often used to get up at five in the morning to work on it, and would continue painting long after I had left his studio. He seems not only to give all his vitality to the canvas but he manages somehowe to take some of the sitter's for the same purpose. He is never content with a likeness of feature, but from the moment his sitter enters his studio he studies his character, temperament, every detail of his personality. When he thinks he has put that on the canvas, then only is he satisfied. It unquestiinably, takes a lot out of him—he looked quite fatigued by the time the portrait was finished. But certainly his results justify it.

Zuloaga is a genius and he is a good illustration of the well known quotation, "Genius is an intuitive talent for labor," or to use the colloquial version, "Genius is an infinite capacity for work." Undoubtedly, work alone does not make a genius, but certainly a genius without work will always remain an unrecognized one. Zuloaga is a great artist, a delightful man and a lesson to budding artists in his complete—absolute—devotion to his work.

Adding Insult to Injury.

Los Angeles Times: A well-dressed portly woman had boarded the train at the last minute and inadvertently taken a seat in the smoking car.

In a few momenst a man directly behind began filling his pipe and shortly tobacco smoke pervaded the whole car.

"Sir," she announced in a stern voice, "smoking always makes me sick."

The offender puffed contentedly and at the same time replied: "It really does? Well, that's too bad! Take my advice, madam, and give it up."

UNCOMMON SENSE.

BY JOHN BLAKE.

The Critical Days of 1924.

It was easy enough at the beginning of the year to make resolves.

It is easy for a business institution, when it organizes, to determine upon industry and fair dealing and enterprise and all that goes to make up business success.

But conception and execution are widely separated.

The critical days of every new year are those that follow a week or two after the resolutions have been made.

In a week or two there has been time to test their sincerity.

You ought to know by that time whether they are the kind that will keep, or merely the sort that are made year after year as a sop to conscience.

If today you find yourself just as determined to make this the best year of your life as you were on the night of December 31, it is pretty sure to be a good year.

If you have begun to think that you were a little too rigorous in the program you laid down for yourself, and that after all a lapse now and then will do no particular harm, this year will be exactly like the rest of them.

In the business of starting anything, whether it is a nation or twelve months in a human life, the worst obstacle to be overcome is laziness.

That is the besetting sin of humanity.

It leads to more trouble than downright wickedness.

Following the line of least resistance is as natural to people as it is to water.

The water, however, cannot do anything about it. It must run downhill unless some force incloses it and pushes it uphill.

But the human being has a will

And that will enables him to push himself uphill, if he decides to exert it.

A new year's resolution is merely a determination, expressed in words, to push yourself uphill for the next twelve months.

But when you make that resolution the hills are not in sight.

They begin to loom very high and forbidding by and by.

That is the time when the will must be on the job and carry out the promise made by the mind when the year began.

There must be no turning back then if any headway is to be made.

And if you continue you will find that the hills are not so high or so hard after all; that everyone you climb makes the next one a little easier, and that if you keep on going you can scale them all by the end of the allotted time.

Think about your resolutions today and if you are not still keeping them you are in danger.

MEN AND THINGS

When the tumult and the shouting of the politicians die, the question obtrudes itself upon the minds of men who are not seeking the plaudits of the unthinking mob but who are trying to think straight for the benefit of the race, why do we tax the railroads anyway? Here is the whole proposition boiled down: Transportation is so great a necessity that we dare not allow it to become monopolized in the sense that those who own the carrier systems shall fix their own charges. We do that thru our national and state commerce commissions. In effect we hire capital to do this work for us, and pay it a certain wage (interest), and expenses.

Under our system of railroad regulation we must, in order to be fair and extend to capital invested in it the same guaranty of the constitution with respect to protection of private property that we insist upon for ourselves, allow the roads to charge as part of their operating expenses the taxes they pay us. As every freight charge consists in part of taxes paid by the railroad that collects it, what we, in effect, are doing is to require them to pay over a lump sum on December 1 and then authorize them to collect it back from us in the following months. Isn't that foolish? We may save something in collecting agency charges but think what an added inducement it is to our tax-spending agencies to have the several million dollars railroad taxes to figure on at budget-making time!

One man may know just as much as another, but if he cannot make as keen and sensible deductions therefrom he is not as well educated in the matter as the other. Here comes a democrat who says that he knows as much about income taxes as Secretary Mellon and proposes that instead of reducing the tax from 50 per cent on the largest incomes to 25 per cent as Mr. Mellon proposes, he would make the new percentage 44 per cent, while exempting all incomes under $3,000. Inasmuch as nine-tenths of the people have incomes of less than $3,000, and all of this number believe in soaking the rich, this is likely to prove quite popular.

But when the proposition is analyzed we find it is chimerical. In 1916 nearly 1,300 persons reported incomes of $300,000 or over. Their total income was over a billion dollars, of which 70 per cent came from investments in business enterprises. In 1921 the number dropped to 246 persons who had incomes of over $300,000, and the amount that same from investments in business enterprises had dropped to 16 per cent. This had been accomplished by shifting ther investments into tax free securities. In other words we have been charging higher rates than the traffic will stand, and under the higher rates we have been getting less tax money than under the lower. At the same time money needed in business to give men work is going into taxfree securities.

The insurance experts do not seem to think highly of the women as conservators of money. One of the biggest in the business said to a group of agents the other day that every man who left insurance money payable to his wife ought to provide for that payment being made on the installment or income plan. He said that an almost incredible percentage of the small insurance money estates were wiped out within a few years because the women did not know how to handle money left them in sums unfamiliar to them.

E. B. Stephenson, president of a local life company, is willing to back up the expert's statement. One of his policyholders left behind him an agreement by which the company was to pay his wife and daughter a stipulated sum periodically for a specified number of years. After his death both the wife and the daughter made a strong drive to induce the company to make a lump sum settlement. They said they wanted money enough to get clothes and take a trip to California. When Mr. Stephenson refused an offer to discount the company's liability very liberally if he would hand over the cash, the women united in telling him in angry tones that he was a mighty poor "business man."

"Any fool can make war," says Lord Curzon—and that is the reason why wise men have to arm themselves.—From the Boston Transcript.

Let us see who can find the surnames of nine well known poets concealed in the following lines:
The poet's awake at stroke of 11.
Tho odd the man still thinks it is 7.
Some cow, perhaps, on the moor, enlightens him.
Or some gay young scamp bellows and frightens him.
